RIVAL IS HELD IN MURDER OF RAILWAY MAN

Brady Confesses Killing Martin, Police Say.

SLEUTHS ALSO SEIZE WOMAN

Hunt Is On for Man Accused of Helping in Auto Slaying.

Allegedly slain to "get him out of the way," Charles W. Martin, 32-year-old railroad man, was brutally murdered Tuesday night, according to Prince Georges County, Md., police, who indicated solution of the crime with the announcement that three alleged principals in the slaying—two men and a woman—are being held without charges at the Hyattsville, Md., jail, while a search is conducted for a fourth party, as yet unidentified.

One of the men held, Oscar Brady, 28, of Bright Seat, Md., and a companion, for whom police were searching early today, took part in the actual killing, County Policeman W. E. Clifton declared. A 32-year-old woman, Mrs. Mary Dawson, around whom the murder plot is alleged to have centered, knew of plans to kill Martin, police said, as did Henry Fleming, of Bladensburg, Md. Brady, it was said, admitted his part and is held with the other two on open charges.

Crime Carefully Planned.

It was evident that the murder plans were carefully thought out beforehand. Brady, who it was reputed was to have married Mrs. Dawson as soon as she obtained a divorce from her present husband, had for some time been incensed at Martin's attentions toward his bride-to-be.

Early Tuesday night Brady called at Mrs. Dawson's home in Tuxedo, Md. Hardly had he arrived when Martin made an appearance. Both men remained several hours, and shortly after 10 o'clock Brady left.

He was followed from the house 10 minutes later by Martin, who told Mrs. Dawson he was going directly home. Martin's bruised and battered body, a bullet through the head, was later found slumped in the front seat of his automobile mired in the mud on a secluded section of Addison-Chapel road in Maryland.

When Martin failed to arrive home after daybreak, his mother, Mrs. Frederick Martin, became worried and started a search. For several hours she and her daughter, Nettie Martin, vainly inquired and hunted.

Brady at Victim's Home.

They were joined in their search by Brady, who volunteered to aid in finding Martin. Meanwhile, two colored men located the Martin car stuck in the mud and found his body on the front seat. They notified Washington police, and H. K. Wilson, head

Doctors Remove Knife From Inside of Throat

One of the most unusual surgical operations ever performed at Emergency Hospital was found necessary yesterday in removing a penknife from the throat of David Rollins, 29, a porter at the Willard Hotel.

Rollins had stabbed himself several times in the throat in an alley near the hotel. The knife was found buried in his esophagus. It had to be removed from the inside.

Son Slain

Child Is Fatally Wounded by Mother, Shooting at Target in Yard.

Twelve-year-old Charles W. Snider, jr., only child of Charles W. and Nanna Snider, of Vienna, Va., was shot through the head and fatally injured late yesterday when a .22-caliber rifle was accidentally discharged by his mother. He died a few hours later at Emergency Hospital.

The accident occurred while his parents were shooting at a tin can in the rear yard of their home with a rifle the father had recently bought. His mother had just fired at the can on a fence post from about 25 paces when the boy dashed toward the target, shouting: "Let's see if mother hit it."

In ejecting the shell, his mother unwittingly pulled the trigger, exploding the next cartridge. The bullet struck the boy, who was about halfway to the target, in the back of the head. It emerged from his forehead.

He was rushed to the hospital here, where a blood transfusion was made in an effort to save his life. The mother was prostrate with grief. Both parents were at his bedside when he died.

500 OF CITY JOBLESS JOIN "ARMY" TODAY

President May Visit Camps of Reforestation Relief Program Sunday.

Five hundred jobless men, Washington's quota of the 25,000 in the first division of President Roosevelt's reforestation army, will be selected today and sent to the training camps, where the President may visit them on Sunday.

The camps, where the Washington men will be trained for two weeks before they are sent into the forests, have not been selected, but all Army posts in this vicinity are ready to receive the men. Fort George G. Meade has tentatively been alloted 3,570, while Fort Humphreys can take care of 950. Fort Myer's quota is 300, but crowded conditions at this post

Bowen Student, 12, Is Killed by Truck

Driver Is Held for Inquest; Youth Was Member of School Patrol.

Twelve-year-old Robert Daniels, 311 N street southwest, member of the schoolboy patrol force, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon by a truck at Four-and-a-half and M streets southwest. The boy, a sixth-grade pupil at Bowen School, Third and K streets southwest, was returning to school from his home, where he had gone for lunch, when the accident occurred.

The driver of the truck, Ellis K. McFadden, colored, Ballston, Va., said the boy started to cross the street and ran back into the path of his vehicle. The left front wheel of the truck, heavily loaded with brick, passed over the boy's head.

McFadden, who is an employe of the West Bros.' Brick Co., was held pending an inquest.

Two Die, Two Hurt Fighting Abduction

Seven Germans Held After Liechtenstein Raid Ends in Murders.

Vaduz, Principality of Liechtenstein, April 5 (A.P.).—Alfred Rotter and Frau Rotter were killed and Fritz Rotter and a Frau Wolf were seriously injured tonight when they resisted the attack of seven men who tried to kidnap them across the German border.

The Jewish Rotter brothers were Berlin's leading theater magnates until they ran into difficulties at the end of 1932, following which they fled into Liechtenstein, whose government does not permit foreign governments to extradite its citizens.

The seven men were arrested and committed to jail in Goetzis, Austria. The Rotters' crash entailed a total of several million dollars. The affairs are not yet untangled. They became citizens of this principality.

PROBE OF AKRON CRASH DIRECTED BY ADM. PHELPS

Wiley and Two of Crew Who Survived Report to Swanson.

HUNT FOR DEAD VAIN; HOUSE QUIZ STARTED

Chairman Vinson Supports Capt. Towers to Be Successor to Moffett.

By HARRIS B. HULL.

A minute and searching inquiry into the destruction of the airship Akron will be conducted by a naval investigation board headed by Rear Admiral W. W. Phelps, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department while Lieut. Comdr. Herbert Victor Wiley, sole surviving officer of the tragedy, and two of his men, Richard E. Deal and Moody F. Erwin, were ushered into the office of Secretary Swanson to give first-hand details of the crash to the Navy's high command.

And as searchers completed another fruitless day of combing the surrounding area into which the giant dirigible fell, the Navy unofficially accepted the fact that all hands, with the exception of Wiley, Erwin and Deal were lost. Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee said he would recommend that Secretary Swanson appoint Capt. John H. Towers, of Macon, Ga., as chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics to succeed Rear Admiral William A. Moffett.

Vain Search Continues.

Towers' name has frequently been mentioned in well-informed circles as the man who would succeed the post of head of the Navy's flying forces when the veteran Admiral Moffett would have been forced to retire for age next November.

Coast Guard and Naval searching parties, hampered Tuesday by rain, fog and poor visibility, operated under favorable conditions yesterday in the broad expanses of the Atlantic off Cape May and Atlantic City, but as dusk fell they submitted only a characteristically terse report to their superiors, that "We found nothing."

Thus it is almost a foregone conclusion that the crash of the Akron will go down in history as something of a mystery. It is known only that it fell into the sea while flying in a storm. The survivors are evidently able to tell little. And, as in the case of practically every great disaster of the air, the destruction of the airship itself has carried away all tangible evidence as well as the greatest experts and valued personnel of the service. Especially is this true in the Akron's case as an angry ocean evidently swallowed up the tangled mass of wreckage into which probers might have looked for some clew to the cause of the accident.

Thus it appears that the board of inquiry to be called will be merely

Denmark Gets Title To All of Greenland

World Court Rejects Norway Claim to Eastern Part of Territory.

The Hague, Holland, April 5 (A.P.).—Denmark's title to eastern Greenland was confirmed today by a decision of the permanent court of international justice in her favor in a dispute with Norway over its ownership.

The Norwegians conceded Danish sovereignty over the remainder of Greenland, but contended that Norway was entitled to a portion of eastern Greenland. A Norwegian expedition had landed there in 1931 and it was claimed Denmark never confirmed her ownership by colonizing the territory.

The court found that Norway's declaration of occupation and any steps which have been taken in pursuance of that declaration constitute a violation of an existing legal situation and are accordingly unlawful and invalid. The court's decision was reached by a vote of 12 to 2.

East Texas Oil Fields Ordered to Shut Down

Austin, Tex., April 5 (A.P.).—The Texas Railroad Commission today ordered the approximately 10,000 oil wells of the east Texas oil field to close down for a five-day period effective at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

The commission, Texas conservation agency, issued the order shortly after it had concluded a hearing of operators in that prolific pool and in all other Texas fields. The counties of Upshur, Smith, Gregg, Rusk and Cherokee are included in the area.

MacDonald to Meet Roosevelt on Treaty

Seeks President's Advice and Aid in Attacking World Problems.

Series of Conversations on Basis for Pact to Open This Month.

London, April 5 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt's aid and counsel for attacking troublesome European and world problems with the swift and decisive action he has applied to American affairs, will be sought by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald during a speedy Eastertide mission to Washington, according to plans that are being made here.

Formal announcement of the prime minister's trip was withheld today, but it was understood that his provisional plans entail his departure on the Berengaria April 15, accompanied by his daughter, Ishbel, who was with him when he visited President Hoover in 1929.

The treasury officials, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Sir Frederick Phillips and S. D. Whaley, are also expected to accompany the prime minister.

It was said that it is only a coincidence that Sir Walter Layton, noted

President Roosevelt will begin a series of conversations with the British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, after April 20, to lay the bases of an Anglo-American agreement preliminary to the general economic conference, it was announced yesterday at the White House. The necessity of concurrence between the two English-speaking nations is regarded on both sides of the Atlantic as the essential prerequisite to the success of the economic meeting. This meeting is to be the forerunner of similar conversations between the President and outstanding European statesmen on the same subjects, it was authoritatively learned.

The exact date of the MacDonald arrival in this country was not known at the White House up to a late hour last night. However, it is known that the internal political conditions of

$31,967,442 SUPPLY BILL VOTED IN HOUSE

$635,000 Added to District Measure for Relief; Sent to Senate.

Raising budget estimates another $635,000, the House yesterday passed the $31,967,442 District supply bill, still $10,236,505 under current appropriations, and sent the sharply reduced measure to the Senate.

Chairman Elmer Thomas, of the Senate District appropriation subcommittee, prepared to call that group together today or tomorrow to map a course of procedure. He personally favors limited hearings for local department heads and civic groups hit hardest by the cuts.

The $635,000 added to the bill yesterday was for unemployment relief through improvements and extensions to the water service. It would be taken from the water tax surplus. Like the $1,040,000 additional appropriated from gasoline tax revenues Tuesday, it was recommended by the Appropriations Committee, and will be administered on approval of the President.

Local civic leaders, unsatisfied with the total $1,675,000 increase over budget figures, will carry their fight for restoration of necessary items to the Senate. One delegation called yesterday on Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), North Dakota, who promised the aid of reinserting some $400,000 for school repairs, and other increases.

As a peroration to House consideration of the District supply measure, House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan and his colleague, Representative Thomas L. Blanton

State Witness in Nitti Case Held as Perjurer

Chicago, April 5 (A.P.).—Admission by Police Sergt. Harry Lang, principal prosecution witness in the trial of Frank "The Enforcer" Nitti, Capone chieftain, that he did not know whether Nitti shot at him during a police raid, led to Lang's arrest on a charge of perjury late today.

The admission, weakening the State's case against the gangland leader charged with assault with attempt to kill the police officer, threw Judge Rudolph J. Desort's courtroom into uproar. Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty promptly asked Lang's arrest on a perjury warrant and the police officer was taken into custody, stripped of his star, and later released on $2,000 bond.

YOUNG DEMOCRATIC GROUP LEAVES CLUB

Rebel Faction Opposes Miss Wheeler, Walks Out and Forms New Body.

A stormy session of the Young Democrats Club of the District at the Carlton Hotel last night resulted in the walkout of a group of members who voted objection to the club's not ratifying the national constitution of the Young Democrats movement.

The dissenting group met following the regular meeting and formed a new organization, which they claimed was more representative of the aims of the Young Democrats movement and of the present administration.

The meeting last night, called for the election of officers, became tense when one of the dissenters started to read a letter sent out to all of the Young Democratic clubs in the country by the recording secretary of the local organization, Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who was charged with misrepresenting the opinion of the club.

Representatives of the press were asked to leave the meeting while the letter was discussed, as it was explained by members later that its contents were "too hot to print."

Members of the club stated that a motion was brought up to disclaim the text of Miss Wheeler's letter as an official action of the club. This motion, it was explained, was tabled after a rising and recorded vote.

The election that followed the reading of the letter brought out a number of objections by members of the organization who were evidently opposed to the action of the local group in not supporting the national constitution of the clubs.

At the last meeting of the club it was decided that the Washington Club would lose its Democratic aspect and become a party machine if it accepted all of the provisions of the national charter. This, it was stated at the meeting by the opposi-

Plan for Embargo on Soviet Goods Cheered in Commons

Retaliation Bill Advances as Sir John Simon Excoriates Moscow.

London, April 5 (U.P.).—The enabling bill which would permit Great Britain to place a complete embargo on all Russian goods was passed on second reading by the House of Commons tonight following a dramatic session in which the Soviet government was vigorously attacked.

The second reading passed by an overwhelming vote of 347 to 48 and the bill will be presented for a third and final reading tomorrow. Its passage is virtually assured.

Passions were aroused to the highest pitch in many months during the debate, which was led by reactionary Conservatives who have long harbored deep animosities against Rus-

GOLD ORDERED INTO TREASURY BY ROOSEVELT

$100 IS PERMITTED; OTHER EXEMPTIONS

Order Effective for Period of Emergency; Action Is Regarded Epochal.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Moving to hasten mobilization of America's vast gold stocks under the effective control of the Treasury, President Roosevelt yesterday issued an Executive order requiring concentration of gold and gold certificates in the Federal Reserve System by May 1.

The order was issued pursuant to the emergency banking act of March 9, which vested the Chief Executive with plenary powers in this direction. Amounts of less than $100 held by individuals are exempt from the order.

Routine administration of the decree was passed by the President to the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall maintain indefinitely war-like control over gold transactions at home and abroad.

Document Is Epochal.

It is intended that the order shall be so administered as to offer the least possible interference with legitimate business transactions. But the strong hand of the Government will ever be ready to check speculative excesses, and to provide the maximum mobility for the Nation's more-than-adequate monetary gold stocks.

Unofficial interpretation of the President's order marked the document for an epochal one in American banking history, for it authorizes and requires the mobilization in the Federal Reserve System of all gold and gold certificates now held by State and private bankers, as well as all supplies hoarded by individuals.

The order is to remain in effect only during the period of national emergency, as defined in the banking law of March 9. It may be revoked by the President at will. Meanwhile, those handling gold must be licensed by the Treasury.

Exceptions Outlined.

Exceptions to the mobilization requirement are specified in the order for gold held in earmark for recognized foreign governments or foreign central banks, the Bank for International Settlements, for metal tagged for use in the industrial arts, and for all gold stocks licensed for "other proper transactions."

In return for their gold deposits with the Federal Reserve system, corporations, individuals and non-member banks will receive other forms of lawful currency, as defined in the act of March 9.

All charges of transportation incident to the mobilization are to be

Plans of Lehman For Repeal Passed

Election Will Be May 23 and Convention on June 27.

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (A.P.).—The New York Assembly today passed a bill calling for a State convention to act on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and providing for 150 delegates, all to be elected at large. The bill, already approved by the Senate, goes to Gov. Lehman. The election of delegates will be May 23, and the convention June 27, at the Capitol. The vote was 107 to 39.

The bill carries out the plan of Gov. Lehman, who believes that the prospect of ultimate repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be brightened by the election of most of the delegates to State convention on an at-large basis, both in New York and elsewhere.

Mussolini Warns France Peace Plan Must Stand

Rome (Thursday), April 6 (A.P.).—While the French government was drafting what reportedly is a revised peace project to submit to Premier Mussolini of Italy, Il Duce early today issued an advance notice that the fundamental provisions of his "peace club" plan must remain intact. Premier Mussolini's statement was issued through the Grand Council of Fascism, his highest advisory body, after a late night session.

It declared that his recent suggestions, asking for collaboration by France, Germany and Great Britain for peace, are the only bases on which "peace of equality" can be built.

BILL SIGNED; CAPITAL GETS BEER TONIGHT

80 Per Cent of Applications Here Rejected by Permit Board.

Eighty per cent of the formal applications to sell beer which swamped the office of the superintendent of licenses, Wade H. Coombs, last night were rejected by the Beverage Permits Board, which worked until nearly midnight.

The rejections were because applications were not properly filled out. The board, headed by the principal assistant corporation counsel, Vernon E. West, approved all applications which were in proper form and met the requirements of the law.

In many of the applications questions were unanswered or the applications were not signed nor sworn as required. These rejected applications will be returned to the applicants by police.

Nearly a score met the board's approval. Temporary permits for these will be ready at Superintendent of Licenses Coombs' office after 11 o'clock this morning.

Earlier in the day the District Commissioners indirectly blocked the proposed beer ball and similar festivities which have been planned to celebrate the return of beer, shortly after

Earl Derr Biggers Dead at Pasadena

Creator of "Charlie Chan" Was Native of Ohio; Born in 1884.

Pasadena, Calif., April 5 (A.P.).—Earl Derr Biggers, novelist, playwright and creator of the detective character, Charlie Chan, died late today at a hospital where he had been confined for several days with a heart ailment.

He was born in Warren, Ohio, August 24, 1884, and was graduated from Harvard in 1907 and a year later joined the editorial staff of the Boston Traveler. He conducted a humorous column in that newspaper and later served it as dramatic critic.

His novels of recent years include "Charlie Chan Carries On," "The Black Camel," "Behind That Curtain," "The Chinese Parrot," and "The House Without a Key."

Probably the best known of his earlier novels was "Seven Keys to Baldpate." He wrote a number of plays and collaborated with William Hodge on "A Cure for Curables."

Chase Bank Votes Drastic Reforms

One Securities Affiliate Is Liquidated as Another Is Reorganized.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Sweeping banking reforms, including the liquidation of one important securities affiliate and the divorcement of another affiliate from its securities selling business, were voted today by the board of directors of the Chase National Bank of New York and the Chase Securities Corporation.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the governing board and president of the Chase National, and also chairman of the Chase Securities Corporation, announced after the meeting of the directors late today that it had been voted to place "in process of liquidation" the Chase, Harris, Forbes companies, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Chase Securities Corporation and to eliminate from the latter's activities "the business of distributing securities to the public."

5 PENS USED BY PRESIDENT

19 States Join D. C. in Celebrating Return of Beverage.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

President Roosevelt yesterday struck the Sheppard act bung from the District's beer barrel, sealed tight, except for speakeasy leaks, since 1917.

It took five Presidential pens to do the job. The 3.2 per cent flow will start at midnight tonight, with the District Beverage Board and the internal revenue collector's office bending every effort to get out necessary permits.

The President signed the District beer and wine bill at 4:06 p. m. Two hours earlier the House ratified the conference agreement on the measure by a vote of 131 to 65. The Senate acted Tuesday.

Thirsty Washingtonians lost their taste for home brew in anticipation of tomorrow's carnival. Thanks to swift action by Congress it will be a legal celebration, with eighteen States joining the Capital in a National "Prosit!"

Pens Become Souvenirs.

The three horsemen of the House wet victory, Chairman Mary T. Norton of the House District Committee, Representative Loring M. Black, jr., (Democrat), New York, and Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, witnessed the White House bill signing. Each received a pen in token.

Rufus S. Lusk, of the Crusaders, who collaborated in framing the local measure, went with them to the White House. He also receiv d a pen. A fifth one went to Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, who supervised revision of the House bill in the Senate.

Mrs. Norton carried home three copies of the local beer act. The President obliged by signing each of them.

"Mr. Roosevelt said it is a good bill," she told waiting newspapermen. "We are going to send copies to the New York and New Jersey legislatures, at his suggestion."

Office Opens at Night.

Meanwhile, officials of the District beverage licensing board waited at the District Building for word of the signing. The office was kept open last night to expedite issuance of permits.

Final House action on the beer conference report came without record vote. Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, dry Georgia Democrat, raised a point of no quorum. Speaker Rainey overruled his point. Representative Homer C. Parker (Democrat), Georgia, asked for a roll call vote. He received no support.

Earlier, a last-minute fight to defeat the report, because it sanctions beer and wine sales on Federal property, was launched by Representative Gale H. Stalker (Republican), New York, and Representative Wright Pat-

CUMMINS' FUNERAL HELD AT LAKEHURST

Sunshine at Dirigible Base Fails to Lift Gloom at Akron's Loss.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 5 (A.P.).—In the little two-story brick house on the Naval air station where he lived with his wife, Dorothy, and their two children, funeral services were held late today for Lieut. Comdr. David E. Cummins, commander of the non-rigid dirigible J-3, who lost his life when the ship fell at Beach Haven.

They were informal services, conducted by Lieut. Comdr. William L. Steiner, chaplain at the station. The body of the officer lay elsewhere in an undertaking establishment at Point Pleasant, side by side with the bodies of Pasquale Bettio, enlisted man on the J-3, and Lieut. Commander Harold E. MacLellan, of Westerly, R. I., one of the Akron's dead.

There were a few floral offerings. There were shipmates there, paying their respects to the memory of a friend who had gone forth sadly enough yesterday to seek those other friends who were lost when the Akron went down.

And that sorrowing behind doors was even more poignant than any open manifestation of grief could have been. The sun shone brightly at Lakehurst today. The flags flew at halfstaff. Officers and men went quietly about their duties. The Akron and the J-3, a stranger might have thought, were simply away voyaging in the skies and nothing so tragic as this dual tragedy had happened.

Still one sensed the tragedy in the air. The great empty hangar, lifting above the sandy wastes with their fringe of dark pines, seemed desolate inside where the Los Angeles rested on wooden cradles, half her fabric removed. And along one side of the hangar still were parked the cars of the officers and men who would never come back, parked where they had left them Monday night when zero hour sounded and the order, "Up Ship!" was spoken.

School children at Lakehurst saluted the flag today in honor of the dead.

At 6:20 p. m. the bodies of Cummins and MacLellan were shipped to Washington. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 they will be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va. Bettio's body will be shipped to Washington at 6:20 p. m., tomorrow.

Einstein Children Leave Fatherland

Scientist States Daughters Have Fled Germany for Safety.

Coq-sur-mer, Belgium, April 5 (A.P.).—Prof. Albert Einstein said today that his two daughters had fled from Germany. The younger, the wife of a Russian, left Germany for France, and the elder, whose husband is a German, has gone to the town of Scheveningen in Holland after having left Berlin secretly.

Frau Einstein learned of the fate of the elder daughter when she telephoned to her home in Berlin. A weeping servant informed her that her mistress had left for the frontier.

Prof. Einstein, who recently visited the United States, has taken a place at Coq-sur-mer because he does not intend to return to Germany under present conditions. He has inquired of German officials in Belgium concerning the steps he should take to renounce his Prussian citizenship. The scientist, who is a Jew, has been the target of attacks by German Nazis and his home in Germany has been searched.

CORAL REEF HOLDS SPANISH STEAMER

Tug and Coast Guard Stand By Vessel With 269 Persons on Board.

Miami, Fla., April 5 (A.P.).—Her nose rammed across a coral reef, the Spanish liner Marques de Comillas, carrying 104 passengers, a crew of 165 and a cargo of wines and preserves, remained aground at Carysfort Light, south of here tonight, despite efforts to shove free with her own power.

She appeared in no immediate danger, although she listed slightly on the left side. She went aground last night.

The tug Relief from Key West and the Coast Guard cutter Unalga from Fort Lauderdale rode at anchor nearby, ready to lend assistance. The Relief was expected to attempt to float the Marques during the night or tomorrow.

Passengers aboard the stranded liner appeared at perfect ease, and waved at the Coast Guard seaplane Acamar, which flew over the position twice today, piloted once by Lieut. W. L. Foley and again by Commander C. C. Von Paulsen.

The Marques, out of Barcelona, Spain, for Havana and Mexican ports, cleared from New York April 1. The Coast Guard said Pedro Maranda was the master. The ship was built in 1928. It is a twin-screw vessel of 9,922 tons, and is 450 feet long.

Moses to Write Here For Chicago Daily News

Chicago, April 6 (A.P.).—Former Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, has turned newspaperman. Monday he will become a member of the foreign news staff of the Chicago Daily News, it was announced today.

He will make his headquarters in Washington.

Senator Davis Leaves For Capital in Chair

Pittsburgh, April 5 (A.P.).—Still a sick man, United States Senator James J. Davis was wheeled out of South Side Hospital today and placed on a train which is taking him to Washington. Senator Davis underwent an appendicitis operation several weeks ago and his recovery has been hampered by a diabetic condition. His physician said today he likely will have to return for another operation.

After spending a day or two in Washington, Senator Davis intends to go to the Moose Home in Jacksonville, Fla., for several weeks.

COMMONS CHEERS RED EMBARGO PLAN

sia. Every element except the Laborites vied for the privilege of assailing Soviet Russia's "conception of justice" during the day.

Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, attacked the Soviets in a dramatic speech in asking passage of the second reading.

Simon, who is England's most famous lawyer, swayed Commons with the fervor of his oratory and was frequently forced to halt his words because of cheering.

Reverting to his courtroom manner, for which he is famous, Sir John described the experiences of six employes of the Metropolitan-Vickers Co., now awaiting trial in Russia on sabotage charges. He inferred definitely that these men, all British subjects, were subjected to indignities at the hands of Soviet police, and his speech was frequently interrupted by cries of "Shame! Shame!"

The embargo act, Sir John said, is the only way "we can secure a fair trial for these men." At one time he started a sentence: "But there is one thing we can do——"

He was interrupted by Tom Williams, Laborite member, who shouted: "Go to war!"

"I hope," answered Sir John, "that there is a more peaceful way than that. The honorable member would never deliberately accuse me of endeavoring to promote war."

He explained that in any event the embargo bill would not go into effect before April 18. The present trade pact with Soviet Russia expires on April 17, and the six Vickers employes are scheduled for trial some days earlier.

Sir Stafford Cripps, former Laborite solicitor general, moved for rejection of the bill, and his motion was met by cries of "Shame!"

Amid hissing from other members, Cripps warned the government against using "language that might exacerbate feelings which already are running high."

NAVY AKRON DISASTER PROBE HEADED BY ADMIRAL PHELPS

completing a routine naval investigation. It is beyond the realm of possibility that a board of inquiry composed of officers now stationed in various parts of the country can meet at Lakehurst and shed any light on the accident when the report of the executive officer of the Akron, in command at the time of crash and who survived, is punctuated with uncertainty. Well informed circles at the Navy Department yesterday scouted the idea that there had been some sort of division of authority at Lakehurst regarding flight orders by simply stating, "The chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics was on board."

Congress Probers Named.

On Capitol Hill, other investigations destined to play a more important part got under way. Chairman Vinson designated a subcommittee to begin its study when the Navy report is completed. Meanwhile the members will maintain close touch with the matter to acquire a good background when they start their important deliberations. And in the hands of these men will largely rest the future of airship development in the United States.

Representative McClintic (Democrat), of Oklahoma, offered a resolution of a special House investigating committee of seven members, none from either the Naval or Military Affairs committees. He said that those committees are "more or less under the influence of the department having jurisdiction." A senatorial investigation is being sponsored by Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, who offered a resolution calling for the convening of a special group of five men to study the entire matter. This went to the Naval Affairs Committee and it is improbable, according to Chairman Trammell, that it will receive consideration this week.

Study Funds for Airships.

Both House and Senate groups will consider as a major point in their deliberations the feasibility of spending further funds on airship development.

Experts last night ridiculed the thought that the Navy would voluntarily abandon its lighter-than-air program. But should the findings of the House Committee, whose parent body to a large extent controls the purse strings of the Government, state that in their opinion the further development of airships is impractical, and should the House support the committee's findings, the Navy would be forced to give up the work that has already taken such a heavy toll of lives in previous accidents, including those of the most ardent exponents of lighter-than-air aircraft. Thus would America follow in the sad footsteps of leading European governments, with the exception of Germany, who have quit the field as "too expensive." Whether this will become an actuality only time can tell, but it is known that many members of Congress hold unsympathetic views toward this work and their numbers are almost sure to be swelled by Tuesday morning's catastrophe.

A feeling of tense drama filled Secretary Swanson's office yesterday afternoon as Commander Wiley with his two men close at his heels elbowed his way through the crowds and reported to the head of the Navy.

Tribute to Gallant Crew.

"I congratulate you, Lieut. Comdr. Wiley, on being one of the survivors of as gallant a crew as ever constituted the personnel of the Navy."

"Thank you, Mr. Secretary," was Wiley's reply.

Turning to members of the press, Secretary Swanson continued:

"In the Akron disaster the Navy witnessed one of its greatest disasters. While there were only three survivors the rest of the men went down with all the characteristics and traditions of the Navy. They went down in discipline, courage. They faced death in a calm courageous manner."

Commenting on the discipline of the crew at the time of the crash, Lieut. Comdr. Wiley said:

"Thank you, Mr. Secretary, I would like to say that the discipline on the ship was perfect. The standby alarm brought the men to their stations, bringing them out of their bunks quickly. Even our beloved Admiral Moffett went to his station. The orders were all given in a low tone of voice and quickly carried out. When the orders for stand by for crash came nothing more was said, there was no further conversation."

Here Secretary Swanson interrupted him and said, "This shows the Navy ever follows its characteristics and traditions of discipline and courage."

Submarine to Join Hunt.

Standing at Secretary Swanson's side was Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who returned yesterday morning from Lakehurst, where he had been sent by the President when first news of the disaster was received here.

Although hope has been practically abandoned of finding any of the members of the Akron crew alive it was indicated at the Navy Department yesterday by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval Operations, that "the search will be continued whether there seems to be the slightest hope or not. We don't want to take any chance that somewhere some one might by floating on even a box."

Pratt also disclosed that he had ordered the submarine rescue ship Falcon to proceed from the submarine base at New London, Conn., to the scene of the disaster. There she will sound the ocean depths in an effort to locate some trace of the Akron on the floor of the Atlantic.

"New orders have gone out to the many units now engaged in the search for survivors and it will be continued until there can be no possible thread of hope that some one might have survived the disaster and is now adrift in the ocean," Admiral Pratt went on.

Pratt said the rescue forces were extending the search to points where it would almost seem there would be no possibility of any one's drifting.

Injured Survivors Treated.

Last night Wiley, Deal and Erwin worked on the report of the disaster which they will submit to Secretary Swanson today. The two enlisted men went to the Naval Hospital, where they had their injuries treated and where they spent the night. Wiley went to the home of a friend. Today the three survivors will tell their story to the President. As they will be the only witnesses appearing before the Board of Inquiry, which will convene at Lakehurst on Monday, they are expected to return there later in the week. Serving with Admiral Phelps on the Naval Board will be Capt. H. E. Shoemaker, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station at Sunnyvale, a veteran of the Naval Air Service, who is flying across the country to take part in the proceedings. Commander Garland Fulton, head of the lighter-than-air division of the Bureau of Aeronautics, will be the third member. Commander Ralph G. Pennoyer will serve as recorder.

Meanwhile, at Akron, Ohio, in the giant airship dock there, workmen were driving the final rivets and putting on the finishing touches in the construction of the airship Macon, designed to be the sister ship of the Akron and to base on the West Coast. Less than a month ago in that dock Admiral Moffett presided at the christening ceremonies, with Mrs. Moffett sponsoring the ship. And in that dock he hoped the Navy would return the Akron and the Macon, "when times improved," so that extra rings and canvas might be added to their structures and their gas capacity enlarged.

Gave Up Life

Hero of J-3, Who Ordered Rescue of Others, Will Never Be Known.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Pilot Otto Kafka, of the air police, said today that the hero of the rescue of the crew of the Navy blimp J-3, which crashed yesterday while on rescue work in the Akron disaster, was one of the two men from the J-3 who lost their lives.

Kafka piloted the police plane which picked up five of the seven members of the J-3 crew and taxied them to shore. As the plane approached the blimp, Kafka said, a man in a lifebelt signaled for the rescuers to save others first. This was done, and when the plane returned for the first man he had disappeared.

The two who lost their lives were Lieut. Comdr. Davis E. Cummins, of Prescott, Ark., and Chief Machinist's Mate Pasquale Bettio, of Lakehurst.

"There is no way to know which of these two was the hero who sacrificed himself for his fellows," Kafka said today.

Coast Guardsman Finds Fragments of Dirigible

Atlantic City, N. J., April 5 (A.P.). Quantities of wreckage apparently from the sunken Akron, were sighted 28 miles east of Absecon Light today by Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert Maxwell, of the Longport Coast Guard Station.

Arriving here tonight after an all-day search in a lifeboat, Maxwell said he collected a dozen drifting objects, including a tin can of emergency rations, a fragment of a door and bits of airship fabric.

He said he turned the collection over to the Coast Guard destroyer CG-2, which was to convey it to the cruiser Portland stationed in the vicinity of the disaster.

Maxwell expressed the belief the objects floated upward from a large mass on the ocean floor. The location was noted in the event naval officials decide to drag that part of the Atlantic.

SCHOOL BODY PLANS APPEAL TO SENATE

Mass Meeting of Citizens Is Set for Roosevelt High School Tonight.

Faced with the problem of operating the District public school system on $3,833,917 less than was expected, the Board of Education at a closed meeting this afternoon will endeavor to work out some plan of procedure, it was decided at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon.

The board will ask the Senate District committee for a hearing so that the plan may be discussed.

"It is necessary for the board to be wise beyond the wisdom of Solomon," Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, vice president of the board, observed, "in carrying out the mandates of the bill."

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, Superintendent of Schools, submitted a report of the school budget, showing the appropriations for 1933, the Board of Education's estimates for 1934 and the modifications of these estimates. This report will be used as basis for the study of the board this afternoon.

Increased Enrollment Cited.

The appropriation for schools for 1933 was $12,162,730, while the estimates for 1934 are $8,528,813. Dr. Ballou declared that to operate the school system on this reduced appropriation will mean curtailment of many features of the established educational system. He made it clear, however, that the teaching force can not be reduced because of increasing enrollment.

"The only way to avoid the unfortunate educational consequences attending congestion in our schools is by the construction of new school buildings," the superintendent declared.

Enrollments in junior high schools are kept within the capacity of the buildings by retaining pupils in the elementary schools, who ought to be accommodated in the junior high schools, the superintendent said.

The superintendent said that Western and other high schools will have to be placed on a double-shift program unless the Woodrow Wilson High School in the Reno section is built. Appropriation for this school has been eliminated from the present bill by the Bureau of the Budget, together with items for all other new schools.

Expense for Clerks.

Other problems facing the board, as outlined by the superintendent follow: Operating expense for clerks must be reduced by $2,046 next year; regardless of 15 per cent reduction in compensation of clerks, it will be necessary to operate with $3,126 less next year; operating expenses for teachers and librarians in 1934 must be reduced by $131,440; irrespective of the 15 per cent reduction in salaries of teachers and librarians schools must be operated on $219,160 less; operating expense for the department of school attendance must be reduced by $2,882 in 1934; exclusive of the reduction of 15 per cent in compensation of custodians it will be necessary to operate on $21,706 less in 1934.

Prominent speakers representing outstanding civic and educational organizations in the District will take part in a mass meeting of citizens tonight at Roosevelt High School auditorium in an attempt to formulate a plan for fighting the proposed cuts in the District budget for 1934, now pending in Congress.

The meeting, which will begin at 8:30, will be presided over by Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders, president of the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, sponsors of the meeting.

Speakers Are Announced.

Among the speakers will be George Sullivan, of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Edward F. McGrady, of the American Federation of Labor; Miss Mary Dent, president of the Teachers Union, and Charles I. Stengle, president of the Public School Association.

Vigorous protest against Congress reducing the public school appropriation without giving citizens a hearing was registered last night by the District of Columbia Public School Association.

Members of the association voted to attend the mass meeting called for tonight at Roosevelt High School in connection with the reduced funds.

Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. Miner W. Buell, vice president of the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations, told of work in providing lunches for school children. Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief medical inspector of District schools, told the association that home feeding is the best. Hot lunches are not necessary to provide proper nutrition, he said. Charles I. Stengle, president of the association, presided.

U. S. Stowaway Freed From Le Havre Prison

Le Havre, France, April 5 (U.P.). Samuel Sooper, 19-year-old Philadelphia student stowaway, was released from Le Havre Prison today after having served three months' imprisonment.

He was sentenced after stowing away aboard the Ile de France as an example to other stowaways. He left immediately for Paris, where the American consulate declined to give him aid, saying stowaways should return to the United States as seamen.

AMERICANS FIGHTING $1,000,000 TELA FIRE

Conflagration Sweeps Over 14 Blocks of Port City of Honduras.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, April 5 (A.P.).—Fire destroyed fourteen blocks today in the commercial center of the City of Tela, the chief fruit port on the northern Honduran coast, and caused an estimated loss of more than $1,000,000.

The American settlement and the United Fruit Co. were not affected as they are separated from the native section of the city, which has a population of about 10,000.

All of the town with the exception of the American district was virtually destroyed, but there were no reports of casualties.

American employes of the fruit company assisted in fighting the fire.

The flames were brought under control at 3 p. m.

Congress, considering the destruction of Tela a national catastrophe, adjourned in token of mourning.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—The United Fruit Co. moved quickly to send assistance to Tela, W. E. Trumbull, manager at Tela, was authorized to bring in from the outlying banana plantations as many of the six-room camp buildings used by the overseers as are necessary to provide shelter for those whose homes were destroyed.

The company also held the ship Musa here to be loaded with medical and food supplies. It will sail Saturday.

Retiring U. S. Attache Is Decorated by Cuba

Havana, April 5 (A.P.).—Secretary of War Carlos Rojas today bestowed the Cuban Army's Order of Military Merit, second class, on Maj. J. J. O'Hare, retiring military attache at the American Embassy, whose recall to service in the United States was effective today.

tion, separated the local club from the national organization.

Homer Tatum Withdraws.

Victor Russell was reelected president of the organization. Homer Tatum, who was nominated for the office, withdrew, stating that he was afraid that his entrance in the race would indicate that he was "not a supporter of the Democratic administration."

Miss Lyda Mae Francis, who was nominated for first vice president of the club, to oppose Miss Wheeler, also withdrew, stating the she "was not willing to run for office in an organization not representative of the Democratic party."

Miss Wheeler was elected to the first vice presidency, and soon after a group of the opposing members left the hall.

The dissenters met and formed a club known as the Young Democrat Clubs of America, District of Columbia Division.

Assertions were made that the officials of the old organization were not cooperating with Postmaster General Farley and the Democratic national committee.

Cox Heads New Group.

Marvin Cox, who was elected president of the new group, stated that the reason for the formation of the new organization was that the members felt it of the greatest importance to offer their wholehearted support and absolute cooperation to the Democratic national committee.

Other officers elected at the regular meeting of the Young Democrats after the opposing group had left were Carl Schedler, second vice president; Miss Ruth Molyneaux, corresponding secretary; Miss Thelma Ross, recording secretary and Philip Herrick, treasurer.

John Paul Jones, in an address seconding Miss Wheeler's nomination, stated that she had been "grossly attacked" by a clique who were opposing her.

Meanwhile the first national convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of America was called yesterday to meet on June 15, in Kansas City.

The call was issued by the organization's general arrangements committee after a conference with Postmaster General Farley, chairman, and Richard F. Roper, executive secretary of the Democratic national committee.

MONAGHAN'S ARREST RESULTS IN APOLOGY

Maj. Brown Sends Regrets to House Member for Ride in Wagon.

A motorcycle policeman's arrest of Representative Joseph P. Monaghan, of Montana, and the subsequent ride of the legislator in a police patrol wagon on Tuesday yesterday brought a written apology by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police.

The Montana representative indicated after the incident Tuesday that he did not intend to seek dismissal of the policeman, Private Cleota Langdon, but that he did feel an apology was due him.

Yesterday Inspector B. A. Lamb, superior officer of Private Langdon, sought fruitlessly to obtain an interview with Representative Monaghan. The latter was too busy with legislative affairs to see the police official. Maj. Brown's letter followed later.

The arrest of the legislator took place at Fourteenth and H streets after the motorcycle had trailed him several blocks, meanwhile unsuccessfully motioning the Montanan to the curb. Assistance of police reserves was required before Monaghan, accompanied by his sister and a friend, was put in the patrol wagon.

The policeman explained that he thought Monaghan was fleeing from a wreck because of a dent on the fender of his car. Monaghan, without credentials when arrested, proved his identity at the station and was set free.

VICTIM, GIRL AND SCENE OF MARYLAND SLAYING

of the homicide squad, communicated with Prince Georges County authorities.

Mrs. Martin, her daughter and Brady went to the Hyattsville Jail upon learning of the murder. There, police said, Mrs. Martin collapsed, while Brady blandly told them he left Martin at the Dawson home and was at a loss to explain what happened to him.

Several hours later police went to the Martin home and arrested Brady, who returned with the grief-stricken relatives. Hours of questioning, police said, convinced them he knew something of the crime.

Clews Found in Home.

Officer Clifton went to his home and there found a pair of bloody trousers and a revolver of the caliber used in the killing. Brady is alleged to have admitted his part when confronted with this evidence.

He is quoted by police as saying he lay in wait for Martin after leaving the Dawson house. As Martin drove down the road for his own home, a half mile away, Brady stepped out and hailed him.

Brady, police related, was in company with another man. The three engaged in an argument, it was learned, and Martin was first beaten and then shot through the head.

His car was driven along Addison Chapel road toward a thickly wooded section, where it was planned to abandon the machine and his body. The car, however, became mired in the mud and the two men fled.

Police said Brady furnished money to Mrs. Dawson so she might obtain a divorce. His testimony under questioning led to her arrest, police said. They quoted Brady as wanting to "get rid" of Martin.

Former Wife Admits Shooting Cowboy Mix

Los Angeles, April 5 (A.P.).—Admitting she shot Tom Mix, cowboy movie actor, nine years ago, Mrs. Victoria de Olazabal, his former wife, testified in superior court today that the shooting was in self-defense because Mix was beating her. The actor had testified his erstwhile spouse had shot him during a quarrel over a "gigolo," guest at their home.

Their testimony was in trial of the suit of Mrs. de Olazabal, now wife of the Argentine consul at San Francisco, to collect on promissory notes for $50,000, which Mix declines to pay on grounds that the notes were obtained under duress.

$31,967,442 SUPPLY BILL FOR DISTRICT PASSES HOUSE

(Democrat), Texas, yesterday sounded a call for a 20-cent reduction in the local real estate and tangible personal property tax rate.

Buchanan said the bill as passed by the House will leave a $6,000,000 surplus in the Treasury, $3,000,000 of which is required by law. He said the remainder should be devoted to tax reduction, declaring the present rate "exorbitant."

"We ought to encourage the people of the District to buy and own their own homes," he said.

Representative Blanton said the tax rate should be cut by the Commissioners from $1.70 to $1.50. He said he had confidence they would do this of their own volition. If they fail, he declared, Congress would take action.

The House raced speedily through the bill to passage. Except for the $635,000 increase recommended by the committee, there was only one other attempt to provide additional funds. Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, attempted to raise the automobile expense allowance for milk inspectors, which, he said, was woefully inadequate.

A clash with Blanton followed. Discounting the Virginian's announcement that he operates a dairy farm 40 miles from Washington and his information is first hand, the Texan declared his exhaustive knowledge of the milk business extends back to his boyhood, when he "milked fifteen cows before breakfast." The Smith amendment was defeated.

Representative Blanton twice tok the floor to excoriate Washington newspapermen for their references to his conduct on the District bill.

Senator Thomas intimated that if hearings are held on the District bill by the Senate subcommittee they probably will get under way Monday morning. He said three or four days devoted to hearings would not be excessive, in his opinion, though he will put it up to the committee. He said he saw no great need for hurry in getting the bill before the Senate.

CHILDREN ON STRIKE FOR TEACHERS' PAY

13,000 Walk Out of Chicago School in Protest Against Delays.

Chicago, April 5 (A.P.).—There was a holiday on textbooks in several Chicago public high schools today as 13,000 pupils struck in protest against the delay in paying their teachers' salaries.

The price of education, as demanded by the young crusaders, was $52,000,000 or a substantial part of it. That amount was due pedagogues and other school employes in back pay.

Some elementary teachers, school authorities reported, staged their own "strike," absenting themselves from their classrooms on pleas of illness.

Following a hastily called conference with school trustees and Fred W. Sargent, head of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, Orville J. Taylor, president of the Board of Education, announced that teachers would receive $1,700,000 in cash within the next few days for the remainder of their June salaries of last year.

He announced banks had agreed to purchase that amount in 1932 school warrants held in the city's aggregate of funds after which the city would turn the money over to the board by buying a similar amount of later warrants.

The big exodus from schoolhouse to the outdoors began promptly at 10:30 this morning at Englewood High. A fire gong clanged and 4,500 pupils tossed their books aside and marched out into the drizzling rain.

That began a movement that spread like a prairie fire to all parts of the city, but did not affect all high schools. Shortly after the Englewood walkout an almost general walkout occurred at Crane College and Crane and Calumet High Schools.

In Springfield, the State capital, a delegation headed by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan, pleaded for aid from Gov. Henry Horner. Another delegation was ready to entrain for Washington to ask President Roosevelt to authorize the R. F. C. in making loans for teachers' aid if they could get an appointment with the Chief Executive.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sallie V. Groff, wife of Chalmers F. Groff, of the Home Title Insurance Co., were held at St. Stephen's Lutheran Church yesterday afternoon. Burial was in Fort Lincoln Cemetery. She died Tuesday at her home at 3802 Twenty-fourth street northwest.

Her husband and two children, Virginia Harris Groff, 5, and Chalmers H. Groff, 4, survive her.

80 PER CENT OF BEER APPLICATIONS LOSE

Thursday midnight. Upon recommendation of the Beverage Permits Board, the Commissioners adopted a regulation which prohibits the serving of beer at meals for which a fee is charged without an on-sale permit. The regulation reads:

"The serving of any beverage with any meal for which a charge is made or at any table for the use of which a charge is made or at any dance or entertainment of any character for which an admission is charged shall constitute a sale of such beverage."

Another regulation would prevent purchasers from getting beer from breweries in containers furnished by themselves. It reads: "A manufacturer or wholesaler holding an off-sale permit may sell beverages in barrels, kegs, sealed bottles and other sealed containers not furnished by the purchaser of such beverages."

The Beverage Permits Board yesterday turned over to the police several thousand application forms to be distributed among the more than 800 persons who have already requested licenses by letter and to other persons and establishments who asked for them.

Shortly after noon these applications, already filled out, began to appear in the office of the superintendent of licenses, and by midafternoon there were several score on hand. Mr. Coombs, as a result, kept the office open until late last night, and tonight he said he would accept applications until midnight, if the demand is great enough.

RUPPERT COUNSELS NO "BEER CARNIVAL"

Tells Brewers Not to Start Delivery Until 6 A. M.; Busch Defies Him.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Jacob Ruppert threw the weight of his position as president of the United States Brewers Association today against a "carnival" welcoming of 3.2 per cent beer in the early hours of Friday. Nineteen States and the District of Columbia will permit immediate sale on that date.

Col. Ruppert counseled against an "untoward celebration" and explained he spoke for brewers "he Nation over in decreeing that deliveries would not be made until 6 a. m.

But it appeared certain that legal beer will flow into steins in many cities soon after the midnight hour, as other breweries announced their intention of speedy delivery.

In St. Louis, Anheuser-Busch and others said they would go forward with plans for distribution one minute after midnight even if they receive the association order from Ruppert before then.

Price of Bottled Beer.

August A. Busch, jr., president of Anheuser-Busch—only association member in St. Louis—said he "can't imagine" Ruppert issuing such an order without first consulting Rudolph Huber, vice president of Anheuser-Busch and a vice president of the association.

In Philadelphia and Chicago, some brewers said cases would be carted out at 12:01 a. m.

How closely brewers in New York City and State would follow Ruppert's order, was not immediately known.

While the New York Legislature remained deadlocked over a plan for beer control, sale of the brew was assured in the absence of prohibitory laws. There are some 60,000 places in New York City holding soft drink permits and, pending the issuance of new licenses, these will be allowed to sell the 3.2 beer.

In Minneapolis, the city council overrode Mayor W. A. Anderson's veto of a regulatory ordinance, which he held in violation of the eighteenth amendment, and immediately issued 429 licenses.

The price of bottled beer, Col. Ruppert said, would be $1.60 a case to jobbers and $2 to consumers.

"Legalization Day" States.

The 19 States in which beer will go on sale Friday are Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wisconsin.

Beer on "legalization day" for the District of Columbia was authorized late today with President Roosevelt's signing of a congressional regulatory measure.

In Delaware and Maryland, beer sales will be restricted to Wilmington and Baltimore, but measures are pending to spread the sale to the rest of these States.

In Colorado, Gov. E. D. Johnson signed a bill late today authorizing beer sales in hotels, restaurants, clubs, on railroad diners and in airplanes. An emergency clause makes the bill effective upon Federal legalization.

In six other States, specified dates have been set for sales—Louisiana, April 13; Vermont, May 1; North Carolina, May 1; Wyoming, May 18; West Virginia, June 9, and North Dakota, July 1.

Mrs. Nellie Lewis Succumbs at Home

Wife of Brewers' and Distillers' Representative Victim of Heart Attack.

Mrs. Nellie Trabue Lewis, 66, wife of Charles M. Lewis, for many years Washington representative of the National Distillers Association and the United States Brewers Association, died at her home here yesterday of heart trouble following an attack of erisipelas. Mr. Lewis, operated on recently here for mastoid trouble, was recovering when the word was carried to him of Mrs. Lewis' death.

Mrs. Lewis was a native of Glasgow, Ky., but spent a portion of her life in Louisville. She and her husband maintained a home at Shelbyville, although they spent their winters in Washington.

DISTRICT GETS BEER TONIGHT AS ROOSEVELT SIGNS MEASURE

man and Thomas L. Blanton (Democrats), of Texas.

Blanton succeeded only in moving the House to cheers by announcing "this bill will be signed at the White House today, and pretty soon we will have beer sold in the Capitol."

Patman plunged representatives into further disorder by his pronouncement that only about three members of the House disagreed with his opinion that 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating. Blanton "suggested" to his colleague that members be given the oath and put on as witnesses. The demonstration subsided.

Br. Blanton declared there will be "scandals in the Capitol that will shock the Nation" if beer sales are permitted in the Capitol.

"If we survived the scandals of 12 years under prohibition, we can stand any that follow enactment of this bill," responded Representative Black.

Bill "Is Too Wet."

Representative John O'Connor, wet New York Democrat, who sponsored one of the early national beer bills, said his only objection to the local measure is "it is too wet."

Following passage of the bill, Mrs. Norton held court for wet Democrats, who gathered about her on the floor offering congratulations.

The bill was signed immediately by Speaker Rainey, sent at once to the Senate for the Vice President's signature, then dispatched to the White House in record time.

Beer 10 Cents Per Glass, Is Estimate of Brewery

Officials of the Abner Drury Co. yesterday estimated that 3.2 per cent beer will sell for 10 cents a 9-ounce glass or by bottle of 12 ounces for 15 cents or two bottles for a quarter.

Wade H. Coombs, superintendent of licenses, yesterday said that the first on-sale license would be issued to the National Press Club as requested.

Federal Beer Licenses And Taxes Explained

The Bureau of Internal Revenue last night reminded those who are preparing to make and sell beer that the $5 per barrel tax is not the only cut the Government will get from the legalization of the beverage.

Federal licenses are required for brewers, wholesalers and retailers, and these licenses cost $1,000, $50 and $25, respectively, the bureau stated, but because the fiscal year ends on June 30 the rate will be $250, $12 and $3.

Licenses can be obtained at Room 1002, Internal Revenue Building.

It was explained that a wholesaler is one who sells the liquid in lots of 5 gallons or more, while a retailer sells in lots less than 5 gallons. To sell both ways both retailing and wholesaling licenses are necessary.

In reminding the beer trade of these license requirements the bureau stated that violations are subject to fines of from $100 to $5,000 and sentences from 30 days to 2 years for each offense.

The Christian Heurich Brewery at Twenty-sixth and Water streets is being made ready for the manufacture of beer. The great red brick structure turned out 100,000 barrels of beer a year.

When prohibition came this old brewery stopped making beer and turned to the manufacture of ice. However, brewing equipment has been kept intact for beer's return.

500 CAPITAL QUOTA OF FIRST DIVISION OF FORESTRY ARMY

may result in all men being detailed elsewhere.

The Army posts where the men will be trained will be selected by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Thirds Corps Area. He was notified last night of the number of men to expect from cities in the area. The George Washington National Forest, between Luray and Edinburg, Va., will be the scene of one of the first work camps to be established, it was decided yesterday.

It was said yesterday at the White House that it was possible that the President would visit one or more of the camps on Sunday. At least three of them are located nearby, and his interest in forestry and the reforestation army is well known.

While the first draft of men will be selected today, it is not likely that they will be sent to the army camps until tomorrow. The Labor Department will transport them to the camps, under present plans, but the Army will take full charge of them at the camps and deliver them to the work areas at the end of the training period.

The 25,000 men who will be sent to the conditioning camps this week were chosen from lists furnished by welfare associations in 17 large cities. Welfare lists were used in order to give priority to men most in need of work and whose financial condition and dependents were known. Later selections will be made from registers set up by the Work Bureaus of the Department of Labor if the welfare units are unable to furnish sufficient men.

The first contingent of the army consists entirely of unmarried men between 18 and 25 years old who have dependents. A part of the $1 per day they are paid in addition to board must be allotted to these dependents. The men will work five eight-hour days a week, and be paid twice a month. Funds to pay the army were made available by President Roosevelt yesterday when he set aside $10,000,000 out of construction funds for the work.

Of the men who will form the first division of the reforestation army, 1,000 are from Baltimore and 7,500 from New York City, in addition to the Washington quota. No Virginia jobless will be enlisted in this first contingent, and only the 1,000 Baltimore men will be taken from Maryland. Later registers will include men from smaller cities and towns.

Nearby forests which will be developed by the "Conservation Corps" include the camp in George Washington Forest, three camps in the Monongahela Forest of West Virginia, camps near Waynesboro, Buena Vista and Snowden in the Natural Bridge Forest of Virginia, and two in Unaka Forest in southwest Virginia and Tennessee.

District Starts Picking Forest Camp Workers

Selection of the District's quota of 500 to go to the administration's reforestation camps will be begun today by the emergency relief division of the Board of Public Welfare, John Marshall place and C street northwest, headed by L. A. Halbert.

Fearing a landslide of applications by unqualified persons, Mr. Halbert last night announced the seven arbitrary qualifications for those who will be selected. The qualifications had been given him by the Labor Department.

All applicants must be between 18 and 25 and unmarried, United States citizens, and shall have been receiving relief from a local charitable or relief agency.

They must, of course, be unemployed, it was said, and shall be able-bodied. Preference will be given applicants who are willing to allot a major portion of their earnings at the camps to the support of dependent relatives.

Mr. Halbert said that while his agency would select a large portion of the District's quota, the Associated Charities, Salvation Army and other groups will be asked to pick out part of the men for the camps.

Miss Hoover Married To Warren J. Glover, Jr.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Virginia Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pendleton Hoover, to Mr. Warren Irving Glover, jr., son of the former Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, took place last evening at 8 o'clock in Al Saints' Episcopal Church, the Rev. Henry Teller Cocke, officiating.

The church was decorated with palms and spring flowers with standards of the flowers at the pews.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory antique satin, fashioned with an empire waistline, sleeves puffed above the elbow and fitted to the wrist, and a long circular train. The flowing veil of tulle was caught on either side with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Albert Earle Conradis, who wore an orchid mousseline de soie fashioned on princess lines with short puffed sleeves, and turban of the same shade. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

The maids of honor were sisters of the bride, Miss Catherine and Miss Louise Hoover, who wore frocks like that of the matron of honor in flame and turquoise mousseline, respectively, and carried spring flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Frances Glover, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Elizabeth Clark, Miss Sara Louise Snell, and Miss Polly Foote, who wore frocks and hats of chartreuse mousseline and carried spring bouquets.

Mr. Thomas Glover was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. John Melcher, of Englewood, N. J.; Mr. John B. Wintersmith, of Louisville, Ky.; Mr. Youart Keralake, Mr. Ben LeGarde, Mr. Malvern Morse, of Washington, and Mr. Roland Butler, of Wilmington.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in Chevy Chase. Mrs. Hoover, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black chiffon and a close-fitting hat of black.

Later Mr. Glover and his bride left for a three weeks' cruise to the West Indies and South America, the latter wearing a yellow cashmere suit with a topcoat of green, and a yellow straw hat. They will be at home after May 1, at 4550 Connecticut avenue.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Melcher, of Englewood, N. J.; Mrs. Charles D. Sayre, of Englewood; Miss Alice Hoover, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Chapman, of New York; Miss Gladys Murphy, of Lowell, Mass., and Miss Barbara Balf, of Hartford, Conn.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—As a diligent reporter of life in New York, my duty certainly demanded that I be here during such a dramatic period as the banking holiday. Actually, however, I was out at sea, en route to a group of obscure tropical islands for a short vacation.

We were two days outward bound when the radio operator informed us that President Roosevelt had declared a bank holiday. On a ship plying such out-of-way lanes, news is sparse. So we few passengers heard no more until the following Monday when we anchored off a small island and were carried ashore in a boat so diminutive that we expected to be hurled into the surf at any moment.

History Made.

It was a British possession, and I mention this because there that day an historic incident occurred. The few shop-keepers in the village refused to accept American money.

Wandering about the settlement, I couldn't blame the merchants. The place was swamped with rumors. There was a rumor that all Wall street had been blown up; that 60 of this country's best known bankers had been assassinated; that revolution had begun simultaneously in America, France, Germany and Japan.

Nothing could be verified because in those outposts of deserted seas it is difficult to get news, and the people are so shut off from the rest of the world that they fear to trust even what news they get.

It was merely a striking example of mob fear; but, shortly after noon the merchants regained their confidence and began accepting American dollars at the rate of $5 for a pound.

A few hours later the island radio station received a full report of the situation, branding all the wild rumors false, and the dollar and pound went back to their normal exchange rate.

One Exciting Day.

But, for us out there in that hidden island, it was an exciting day, as tempestuous as were the days back here in New York. On returning, New Yorkers said their greatest inconvenience had been the fact that they couldn't get change for large bills.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1932

THE 86TH ANNUAL REPORT of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, covering operations for the year 1932, will be formally presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 11th, 1933. The report shows that although total operating revenues, the lowest since 1911, declined over $116,000,000, or 26%, as compared with 1931, the Company earned a net income of $13,573,536. This was equivalent to 2.06% upon the outstanding capital stock at the close of the year as compared with 2.97% upon the amount outstanding at the close of 1931. Net income per share (par $50.) was $1.03, as compared with $1.49 in 1931.

OPERATING RESULTS

	1932	Comparison with 1931 Increase or Decrease
Total Operating Revenues were	$331,393,458	D$116,606,821
Total Operating Expenses were	242,011,603	D 110,864,328
Leaving Net Revenue of	$ 89,381,855	D$ 5,842,493
Taxes amounted to	28,331,430	D 1,738,307
Equipment, Joint Facility Rents, etc., amounted to	12,018,387	D 2,180,418
Leaving Net Railway Operating Income of	$ 49,132,038	D$ 1,923,768
Income from Investments and Other Sources amounted to	46,599,391	D 1,487,042
Making Gross Income of	$ 95,731,429	D$ 3,409,710
Rental Paid Leased Lines, Interest on Funded Debt and Other Charges amounted to	82,157,893	I 2,918,373
Leaving Net Income (Equal to 2.06% of Capital Stock)	$ 13,573,536	D$ 6,367,962

A dividend of 1%, amounting to $6,583,848, was paid to stockholders on March 15, 1933, and charged against net income for 1932.

FINANCE

The Company met its maturing obligations including $1,800,000 Equipment Trust Certificates. To enable the Company to continue at a reasonable rate work on its improvement program, and thus help to relieve unemployment, $27,500,000 was borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Arrangements were made to borrow $6,000,000 more, when required, to build 1285 improved type steel box cars, now under construction at the Company's shops.

The net increase in the investment in road and equipment for the entire Pennsylvania Railroad System was $25,536,414.

OPERATING RATIO

How effectively the railroad met the decline in business during the year by reducing expenses is indicated by the ratio of operating expenses to operating revenues which was 72.6%, the lowest of any year since the war, except 1929, which was only one-half point lower. Total operating revenues in 1932 decreased 32% compared with 1929. Operating expenses were reduced 31.6% compared with 1929.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

To meet the changing travel habits of the public and provide maximum comfort and convenience in facilities and service, quicker and more accommodating through schedules have been provided between New York and Chicago, St. Louis, Toledo, Detroit and intermediate points previously served only by local trains. The BROADWAY LIMITED now makes the trip between New York and Chicago in 18 hours. On all other trains extra fares have been discontinued, making both coach and Pullman travel more economical. Sleeping car service between New England and the West has been increased. Dining cars have been equipped with continous cooling and air-conditioning apparatus and in hot weather, parlor, sleeping and coach cars are now pre-cooled at important terminals.

Faster and more flexible freight service has been installed between Pittsburgh and New England and between the latter and the South, West and the Delmarva Peninsula. Store door collection and delivery of less than carload freight has been established experimentally at many places and will be extended as conditions warrant.

ELECTRIFICATION

Electric passenger train service between New York and Philadelphia was established on January 16, 1933. This service, with the electrified operation already installed between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., completes the first unit of the Company's long distance electrification project, which will eventually include both passenger and freight train operation between New York and Washington.

The Pennsylvania Railroad System now has 392 miles of line and 1,287 miles of track electrified, including the Long Island Railroad, the New York-Wilmington service and all the suburban lines in the Philadelphia district.

PROGRESS ON OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

Sufficient facilities were installed to permit operation of the New York-Washington trains through the new West Philadelphia terminal on March 12, 1933, when the old West Philadelphia Station was abandoned. Progress continued on the Company's other major improvement projects, including those at Newark, N. J., Baltimore, Md., Chicago, Ill., Cincinnati, O., and at many other places on the System where important additions and betterments have been undertaken.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

With certain modifications the Interstate Commerce Commission approved on July 13, 1932, the Four-System Plan for consolidating railroads in the east (excluding New England) and gradual grouping of the railroads allocated to the four systems will be effected as general business conditions permit.

Meanwhile, negotiations were concluded for the unification of operations of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad controlled by the Pennsylvania and the Atlantic City Railroad controlled by the Reading with a view to eliminating losses due both to duplication of services and facilities and to the increased diversion of the traffic of these railroads to highway vehicles. Under the unification agreement, which is subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Pennsylvania will own two-thirds and the Reading one-third of the stock in the operating company.

STOCKHOLDERS

Ownership of the capital stock of the Company on December 31, 1932, was more widespread than ever before, the number of shareholders on that date being 250,926, an increase during the year of 4,997. The large investment represented by the stock and other outstanding securities of the Company together with the interest of the employes and the public are regarded by the Management as a responsibility commanding its utmost efforts.

Achievement of the results recorded above, notwithstanding extremely adverse business conditions, reflects outstanding credit upon the officers and employes. The stockholders and bondholders can cooperate with them in a most effective way and promote our mutual interests by continuing their own efforts to secure additional passenger and freight traffic for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

W. W. ATTERBURY,
President.

FOREIGN REPORTERS AND NAZIS AT ODDS

Government May Dissolve Group Because of Book Alleged Offensive.

Berlin, April 5 (A.P.)—The Foreign Press Association, representing about 135 correspondents from more than 20 nations may be dissolved by the German government because the cabinet considers a book written by its president to be offensive.

The conflict centers about "Germany Puts the Clock Back," written by Edgar Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News. It appeared a month before the appointment of the Hitler government.

The cabinet has decided to boycott the association as long as Mowrer retains the presidency. He offered to resign, but by an overwhelming vote the association declined to permit him.

The Chicago correspondent explained his position thus:

"My standpoint is: Responsible foreign newspaper correspondents must by no social or other personal pressure of whatever nature be hindered in the freedom of their criticism in so far as they report to their country on the basis of unchallengable material."

At a general meeting Mowrer asserted that the gerat majority of his American colleagues agreed the book in nowise transcended the limits a political writer should observe. This position, he said, was shared by Fredric M. Sackett, the retiring American Ambassador.

Mr. Sackett suggested to Foreign Minister von Neurath that the difference be bridged, but Minister of Propaganda Joseph Goebbels informed the association that it would be boycotted as long as Mowrer remained president. After Mowrer had been upheld by the association, hints came from various quarters that the government might dissolve the organization.

M'DONALD IS COMING TO LAY PACT'S BASIS

England will determine to a large degree the date of the Prime Minister's arrival. The French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, called on the President to take his leave as M. Claudel will begin his new duties as French Ambassador to Belgium very soon.

From his conversations with the President it was learned that the French government may decide to send an outstanding statesman of the caliber of Mr. MacDonald to take up with the United States the same subjects that will figure in the Roosevelt-MacDonald conferences. Former Premier Edouard Herriot would be the likely candidate for such a mission.

Dr. Luther Due Soon.

The German government will shortly have as ambassador here Dr. Hans Luther, former head of the Reichsbank, who is regarded throughout Europe as one of the outstanding economists of the day. Ambassador-designate Luther will participate on behalf of his government in similar conversations with the President and Premier Mussolini is expected to delegate an Italian statesman to enter into American-Italian discussions on the same plane as the Anglo-American, the German-American and the Franco-American. The present ambassador here, Augusto Rosso, may be the choice of Mussolini for this special task. These individual bilateral conversations between the United States and the principal countries to be represented at the World Economic Conference would go far in removing the individual obstacles to general agreement that have already cropped up in the preliminary survey of the situation that has been made.

Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador-at-large, who was to go to Berlin Friday from Paris for a conference with German Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath, it was announced at the State Department last night. The object of the visit will be a discussion of the disarmament and economic questions that are expected to figure in the Anglo-American conversations here. A corrolary object of the trip is to arrange for the discussions here between the President and the German Ambassador-designate, Dr. Luther.

Actual Contact Made.

Naturally, the Anglo-American discussions are the only ones yet to proceed to the stage of actual contact between statesmen of any two countries. As each ambassador has called at the Department of State in the last month, he has naturally been interpellated by Secretary Hull on the probable attitude of his country to the American program for recapturing international stability. Only in the case of Great Britain has a formal exchange of views been undertaken. Within the next fortnight, these conversations which have been quietly progressing on the agenda of the conference, are expected to rapidly accelerate in order that a fair record of preliminary survey will have been accomplished by the time the prime minister arrives.

However, the exact nature of the Roosevelt-MacDonald conversations has not yet been definitely determined. The formal statement made by the President intimated the desirability of conversations with the British prime minister. The President said:

"In the course of informal exchanges of views between the British and ourselves regarding the general economic situation and the problem of disarmament, the President has felt that a visit to Washington by the prime minister would be helpful."

"The President ever since his first conversation with the British Ambassador at Warm Springs has emphasized his hope that the prime minister could come over."

The fact that the United States was not formally inviting Mr. MacDonald was stressed here yesterday, as one thing the President wishes to avoid is any semblance of discrimination in favor of Great Britain in advance of the economic parley. For this reason, the eventual exchange of views between him and outstanding statesmen of France, Germany and Italy in advance of the conference is regarded as a strong likelihood here.

Plot to Send Arms to Cuba Told by Mail Order Forger

Richmond, Va., April 5 (A.P.).—A sensational story of a plot to buy up arms in this country for use in overthrowing the Cuban Machado government was told in United States District Court today by Antonio Narvaez, alias Navarro, who was sentenced to nine years in the penitentiary on charges of cashing forged money orders.

Asserting he did not know the money orders were forged, the defendant told the court that they were sent to him by mail from his confederates in Cuba. He said he had been deputized by certain prominent Cubans in Florida whom he mentioned by name, to travel around and secure money for the purchase of guns and bullets.

Postoffice Inspector J. W. Cole, who investigated his story, said he could find no evidence that the man's contentions were authentic. He said the Cubans in Florida admitted knowing Narvaez but denied hiring him for any such purpose.

Authorities said the defendant was suspected of being a member of an international ring of money order forgers.

After only twenty minutes' deliberation, a jury found the Cuban guilty of knowingly cashing three forged money orders in Richmond, each for $100. The court sentenced the defendant to three years in the penitentiary on each of the charges.

Postoffice Inspector B. B. Webb, of Richmond, testified that money orders totaling $5,520 were cashed by Narvaez at various points throughout the South. The defendant was said to have visited Miami, Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Augusta and Waycross, Ga.; Columbia, S. C., Winston-Salem, N. C., and Richmond, Danville and Lynchburg, Va.

Authorities revealed that a number of men suspected of being accomplices of Narvaez in an international money order forging plot are under arrest in various parts of the United States, but their names were not revealed.

VETERANS HOSPITAL SAVINGS TO MOUNT

Hines Announces Billion to Be Cut From Future Care Program.

Additional savings of $1,208,000,000 over a ten-year period, through elimination of items for veterans' care, will be made under the new hospitallization regulations, President Roosevelt was told yesterday by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs.

These secondary savings, amounting to about $120,000,000 a year, are in addition to the immediate economy of $400,000,000 made possible by cuts in compensation. Of the ten-year saving, $1,043,000,000 is the cost of operation and $160,000,000 the cost of constructing additional facilities.

The old liberal hospitalization regulations would have cared for a number of men increasing until some time between 1940 and 1945. This number would have required 81,459 hospital beds at the time of the peak load, and would have required 16,373 beds later when the number of inmates of soldiers' homes had increased. The total number of beds in hospitals at the peak was estimated at 97,832. Present construction would have provided only 54,855 beds, a deficiency of 42,977. These 42,977 would have had to be provided, at a cost of about $3,000 a bed.

Present construction of soldiers' homes will provide facilities for only 23,952, while the peak under the old regulations would have required 49,118. This deficiency of 25,166 would have to be made up, at an average cost of $1,250 per bed.

economist, is proceeding to America on the same ship.

Remaining in Washington only a few days, Mr. MacDonald will return to London soon after the House of Commons reassembles April 25, prepared to preside at the world economic conference, to push his disarmament plan at Geneva, and to continue the European pacification scheme inaugurated with Premier Mussolini at Rome last month.

The world's economic plight would be the main subject of the MacDonald-Roosevelt talks, with disarmament in the background and war debts dovetailed to the negotiations now being conducted by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambasssador.

Cherry Blossoms in Full Display Tomorrow, Official Report.

The single bloomed cherry blossoms which line the Tidal Basin will be in full display tomorrow, the Office of Public Buildings and Parks announced yesterday.

With the blossoms already breaking, the crowd of visitors in the city give evidence to the efforts of the Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade in publicizing the annual event.

Press releases reporting the progress of the blossoms have been sent to 400 newspapers by the committee, which also has arranged for radio broadcasts over both national chains.

The committee has also asked the residents of Washington to cooperate in making the cherry blossoms more interesting to the city's visitors. Merchants have been asked to have blossom display windows so that a flowery atmosphere will pervade the city.

WORLD FEARS OF WAR.

The prospect that Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain will visit Washington soon to confer with President Roosevelt is encouraging. It indicates that sufficient progress has been made in preliminary conversations to warrant the British Prime Minister in taking the time to exchange views with Mr. Roosevelt on fundamental political questions which must be considered in advance of the projected world economic conference.

The national and international questions involved in a readjustment of world economic and defense conditions are so numerous and complicated that they can not be dealt with satisfactorily by agents. Personal conversations by those responsible for the shaping of national policies is necessary before a world conference can frame agreements acceptable to all.

The Far Eastern question, for example, thrusts itself into the problem of world economic and arms adjustments. The nations would be wasting their time if they discussed tariff changes and European arms adjustments while events in the Far East were moving to overturn all they tried to do. They are facing a situation in Asia which must be settled before any important nation will commit itself to either economic or arms agreements.

Soviet Russia, a gigantic comet moving in an uncertain orbit, must also be taken into consideration. If Japan is planning to take Siberia after consolidating her position in Manchuria, as some observers believe, a sudden outbreak of war over the Polish corridor might follow hostilities along the Manchurian-Siberian frontier. Japan's refusal to enter into a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia is a sinister omen. Recently Japan has informally made it clear that recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States would be regarded as evidence of some understanding between the two countries in regard to Far Eastern questions. Naturally, Japan would look upon such an understanding as an extension of the world determination to nullify the efforts of Japan in Manchuria.

Japan also apprehends that an international embargo upon arms may be laid against her solely, in harmony with the conclusions and recommendations of the League of Nations committee now working out means of making effective the resolve of the nations not to acquiesce in the seizure of Manchuria. In case of an arms embargo directed solely against Japan, the Japanese fleet might be expected to seize all vessels carrying arms to China. This would immediately involve other nations in a dangerous quarrel.

Many other questions of a political character must be considered by the heads of governments in endeavoring to pave the way for economic adjustments. France can not be expected to agree to any arms adjustment for herself or her allies while Germany is in turmoil and threatening to grapple with Poland. Without reduction of expenditures for armaments, what is the use of discussing reduction of tariffs or other economic questions affecting national budgets in Europe? The nations there are in fear of war. They will not economize in armaments so long as they must rely upon their own defenses for their existence. Economic problems, however pressing, shrink into secondary importance when nations fear war.

If President Roosevelt, Prime Minister MacDonald and other heads of governments can evolve a plan which will eliminate present fear of war, both in the Far East and in Europe, there will be good hope for agreement upon some of the major problems of economic character. If political obstacles can not be removed, an economic conference will accomplish nothing worth while.

BUILD UP THE NAVY.

It is strange but nevertheless true that the only hope of getting a naval construction program through Congress is to disguise it as unemployment relief. The Navy has been shamefully neglected. At this critical period in international affairs Chairman Vinson, of the House naval affairs committee, is forced to admit that "all the shipyards of the country couldn't possibly build our fleet up to permitted limits by the time the London treaty expires on December 31, 1936."

Indications are that President Roosevelt's program of public works will include construction of 30 naval vessels over the next three years. Two-thirds of the new ships would be destroyers, four submarines, four light cruisers and two aircraft carriers. This program represents only a fraction of what should be done to bring the Navy up to its proper relative strength. But it is a beginning. If work on these vessels is pushed forward, the position of the United States will be considerably improved. Having launched a building program, the Government could demand, at the expiration of the London treaty, a reduction of other navies as an alternative to the building for American defense of the largest fleet of fighting ships in the world.

No type of work furnishes so much employment for so little money as naval construction. It is estimated that $195,000,000 of the $230,000,000 that would be needed for construction of the 30 vessels, would go to labor. Here is one field in which money appropriated to relieve the unemployed can not be spent largely for machinery and materials.

It is not necessary to consider the unemployment problem, however, to justify this moderate program of naval construction. In no other field where public building might be undertaken is there a deficiency so glaring as that in naval construction. A few years after the World War, when the cost of American unpreparedness was so fresh in the minds of the people, no one would have believed that Congress could be so neglectful of national defense as it is today. In recent years the Government has had no naval policy. It has just allowed the Navy to drift into a position of serious inferiority to the British and Japanese fleets. Continuation of that policy in the face of unsettled conditions in various parts of the world would amount to criminal negligence.

FRIDAY MORNING BEER.

Col. Jake Ruppert, New York's big man in brewing, baseball and other exhilarating but non-intoxicating sports, announces on behalf of the United States Brewers' Association, that beer deliveries will not begin until tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock—too late and too early. No one can sit up till daylight to begin drinking beer and no one wants beer for breakfast. As a result of this acknowledged temperance move on the part of the maltsters, legal imbibing will not begin at 12:01 tonight, but will have to be postponed until the p. m. hours tomorrow.

Congressmen find themselves well matched in the apparent naivete of the brewers. They are equally insistent about the innocuous character of the reinstated beverage, but nevertheless and notwithstanding the fact that it is simply a mild and nourishing drink the brewers have abandoned the idea of midnight deliveries since they do not wish to be parties to any "carnival or untoward celebration at the time the change in the Volstead act takes effect legally."

Mr. Ruppert is alarmed at the thought that in the enthusiasm of new found freedom exuberant spirits might indulge in excessive hilarity which would be charged to beer. It would be unfortunate if a superfluity of natural exhilaration should bring discredit upon the amber fluid just as it was released from the confines of the Constitution. It is for this reason that Col. Ruppert says the legitimate brewers of the association, who control 80 per cent of the American output, will begin delivering beer along with other soft drinks and food at the usual business hour.

"Therefore," says the colonel, "so-called celebrations previous to April 7, or the 'night before,' will be without any appreciable distribution of beer from legitimate breweries." Beer may not be intoxicating, but its promoters do not intend to take responsibility for any orgies that may accompany its return.

PATRONAGE PRESSURE.

Mutterings on Capitol Hill portend a crisis on patronage pie. Members of the House and Senate are exhibiting signs of restlessness over delay in ousting Republican postmasters, district attorneys, collectors of internal revenue and other officeholders throughout the country. Some legislators have expressed their eagerness for new appointments to Postmaster General Farley during the last week in vigorous terms. Jobs are jobs in these difficult days, and every congressman is prodded by his constituents for a prompt distribution of the over-ripe fruits of victory.

But no party leader can be unmindful of the fact that President Roosevelt also has been under extraordinary pressure since March 4. The demand for immediate effective steps to spread the sails of business at home and abroad has been overwhelming. It forced the new administration to launch itself at emergency speed, whereas in normal times a new President may tune up his reorganized administrative machinery for a year or more before he is called upon to submit a legislative program. It is indefensible in those who demand their patronage immediately to suggest that the larger affairs of vital national and international concern shall be set aside even for a day in order to devote time to bickerings over district appointments.

Every Democratic congressman knows that if he is a loyal follower of the President and the party platform he will eventually obtain his just share of the patronage. It is incumbent upon him to be patient.

Mr. Farley's frank policy of withholding awards of jobs until the legislative program is out of the way is practical and effective party management. Party solidarity is everything in an emergency, particularly with a new Congress in session.

Those Democrats who bolt the party on emergency measures will have only themselves to blame if they get no plums.

MOBILIZING GOLD.

President Roosevelt's order for the effective mobilization of monetary gold stocks will serve immediately to strengthen the national banking structure and provide additional currency for reviving industry and commerce.

No other world power since the war has permitted vast portions of its gold resources to be congealed in scattered lots throughout the country. The pooling of these supplies will immediately provide a solid base for hundreds of millions of dollars in additional Federal Reserve currency.

Hoarding, which became extremely unfashionable three weeks ago, now becomes a criminal act. Personal holdings of less than $100 are exempted from the President's sweeping executive order.

The strong arm of the Federal Government is to be constantly on guard above America's vital gold stocks. Dollar-raiding abroad will be wiped out, for no exports will be permitted in settlement of purely speculative accounts. Hoarding at home must stop by May 1. After that date gold transactions may be conducted only under licenses issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. The President has made it plain he will offer no interference with legitimate business transactions at home or abroad.

The executive order is but another step in the process of driving out of the banking system all of those forces, influences and operations which tend to restrain the normal and wholesome functioning of the machinery of credit.

The move is another step toward business recovery. It should be supported by every bank and every individual in the United States.

Former Senator George Moses has joined the foreign news staff of a Chicago newspaper and will make his foreign headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Treason spreads very thin in the United States these days. Let the new law against hawkers of official secrets be all wool but only a yardly wide.

History wrote the epitaph for William A. Moffett and his heroic crew: "Gallant sailors—lost at sea."

When Prime Minister MacDonald came here before, the question was naval parity. There's no such question now.

BIG SALARIES

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

To Dempster MacMurphy, of the Chicago Daily News, must go the palm for discovering a type of job impervious to the depression, namely, mutual insurance company executives. The insurance companies themselves have been so hard hit by the depression that public authorities have come to their rescue. For instance, New York and other States have prohibited policy loans and the collection of cash surrender values, except surrenders up to $100 in cases of "extreme need" and loans made for the purpose of paying premiums.

It might be supposed that the mutual companies, inspired by the hardships of their policy holders and the almost universal example of other business, would cut the princely salaries their executives enjoy. Mr. MacMurphy finds that, far from doing this, in many cases insurance executive salaries are actually higher than they were in the boom year of 1929. He points out that the only company giving evidence that its executives realize a depression has hit the country is the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which recently announced a 15 per cent cut in salaries of over $5,000.

Here are the salaries of executives of five leading companies:

	1929	1932
Equitable Life Assurance Society.
T. I. Parkinson, president	$75,000	$100,000
L. M. Fisher, vice president	34,375	40,000

Let policy holders who find the doors of these companies shut to them when they apply for loans, who find Congress, State Legislatures and State insurance commissioners tumbling over themselves in an eager effort to help the insurance companies through the depression—let them read these figures and weep.

THE FUTURE.

I heard one cry: "This is the end of all!"
And then beyond tomorrow I could see
Forests of beauty that are yet to be;
Great oaks that got their start from acorns small,
And countless undone tasks that soon shall call
For courage and for skill, and fronting me
Were high achievements, prisoned, now set free
By men who dared to scale new wisdom's wall.

I saw great shelves of splendid books which yet
Remain unpenned within the minds of men;
Crowns of young glory which the brave shall get
And roads to conquests still beyond our ken.
The end of all! Welcome the rising sun!
The things which man shall do are scarce begun.

A Few Articles of Faith for the Present-Day American

By ROBERT QUILLEN

I BELIEVE that America's form of Government, despite its faults, is the best in the world.

I believe that every individual has the right to work and prosper and enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and security.

I believe that the ordinary man has greater opportunity and greater advantages in America than anywhere else.

I believe that the individual's right to do as he pleases, so long as he does no injury to his neighbor, is worth more than any degree of efficiency that could be achieved by a dictator.

I believe that this Nation, being blessed with such illimitable resources of energy and natural wealth, must inevitably continue to progress and prosper.

I believe that our people, despite their occasional excesses and follies, have sufficient intelligence to remedy any condition that threatens their welfare.

I believe that the majority of my countrymen, of high and low estate, are fair-minded, honest and trustworthy.

I believe that our young people are more self-reliant, better informed, more frank, cleaner in mind and better trained in good sportsmanship than any other generation of which we have knowledge.

I believe that every citizen should bear his proportionate part of every tax, since those who pay the fiddler call the tune.

I believe in living at peace with my neighbor and with other nations, yet I consider it my duty and my right to be prepared at all times to defend myself and my country.

I believe man's rights are greater than the rights of property, and therefore I believe great fortunes should be checked before they absorb and master the Nation.

I believe the first duty of Government is to protect the weak from the tyranny of the strong, whether the strong be racketeers, swindlers, bandits, police or judges.

I believe in supporting the industries of my own land and defending them against foreign competitors.

I believe this country is mine, as its public parks and highways are mine, and I therefore believe I have the duty and right to support everything and everybody that benefits the country and combat everything and everybody that does it injury.

POLITICAL COMMENT

40 Billions of Escaping Wealth.

Topeka Capital.

In pressing his constitutional amendment permitting Congress to tax State and municipal securities and the States to tax Federal securities, Senator Costigan, of Colorado, remarks that "the wealth invested in tax-exempt securities has failed the Nation in its hour of economic need. Our unwisdom," says the Colorado senator, "never has been so apparent as in the present crisis." There is probably some force to this statement, not in times of critical need only, but at most times. Wealth runs to cover, and exempt securities make good cover.

It was a simple theory on which public bonds were originally exempted from taxation, on the ground that the municipality would merely be taxing itself if it subjected them to taxation. It was hardly suspected that the time would come when 40 billions of wealth would escape all taxation by resort to these investments. Nor was it ever suspected that exemption would grow by what it fed on, until not only the bonds were tax free, but to a large extent the income from them likewise. The purchasers of bonds have brought about the privilege of tax exemption to an extent not anticipated two generations ago.

Near-Beer Depression.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

In accounts of the stimulating influence of the beer bill on commerce, one adverse effect is overlooked. It is going to hurt the near-beer trade.

Powers of Congress and President.

Topeka Capital.

A novel slant is given to the so-called dictatorial powers conferred by Congress on the President for some special emergency purposes by the remark of the Salina Journal that "the Farm Board was a creature of Congress, and a creature of the legislative body, once fastened on the country, is hard to get rid of. But if the Farm Board had been a product of emergency powers accorded the President it could have been dumped overboard in a minute at a mere word of the Executive." This, the Journal says, is "exactly the condition we want now" in regard to the Roosevelt price-stabilizing plan for farm products.

Too Early to Shout.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Little items appearing here and there in the news should warn the wets of the Nation that it is much too early to begin shouting about repeal of prohibition. These items should put liberal organizations on their guard, should warn them that the decisive battle in the campaign is yet to be fought and won.

Unless the liberal organizations can put a damper on the hysterical enthusiasm of the rabid wets who are hymning the legalization of beer in arrogant tones, their cause will suffer considerably. If the return of beer is to be hailed with unbridled license and insolence, a most effective weapon will be placed at the disposal of the forces of prohibition.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Farmers Will Not Cooperate to Help Themselves, Says Former Missourian, Who Cites a Case.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest a letter written by Edward D. Lyle wherein he says, "The average farmer is just as much to blame for his present plight as the banker."

Mr. Lyle is correct in that statement, and to go even further, I would say the farmer is more to blame than the banker because he will not try to help himself. I will give the following example as proof of this assertion:

At Trenton, Mo., the home of Arthur M. Hyde, a farmers' cooperative association was formed, backed by Government capital. The farmers subscribed for the stock and their own business was started. But did it succeed? It did not. Swift & Co. had a similar plant a few blocks away, and they promptly raised the prices on all the farmers' commodities. Then what happened? These very same farmers (and I know most of them personally, having been reared at Trenton, Mo.) left their own association—the very business they themselves owned and operated—and sold their farm products to Swift & Co., all for the sake of a few cents above market prices. The farmers' association, of course, went broke and the Government had to take it over for protection. Then Swift prices came down to market levels, and now these farmers content themselves with cussing Uncle Sam.

Any one with a dime's worth of brains can see how much cooperation Mr. Roosevelt will get from the farmers when he commences his so-called farm relief experiment.

Mr. Hyde, while Secretary of Agriculture, made a tour of Missouri and Kansas preaching to the farmers' organizations to cut down crop acreage, thereby raising price levels of farm commodities. He was trailed by good Democrats—and they are still on the pay roll—who told the farmers that Hyde was loco. The farmers listened and happened to heed the warning. And now the present Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Wallace, also a Republican, says that the farmers must cut down acreage if they expect better prices. No good Democrat has cried out against Mr. Wallace.

No wonder the late Senator Walsh said that a Democrat gets elected to office on Jeffersonian principles and is able to retain that office by carrying out Hamiltonian principles.

Congressmen Strong for Education Until It Comes to Appropriations for Schools for the District.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: How many members of Congress are there who, being called on to address a convention of educators, would fail to do justice to the occasion? Not many of them, you may be sure.

In such a case they are always ready with an opening tribute to education and educators. They are pretty sure to wind up in a fine flow of patriotic feeling as they drive home the truth that education can not be neglected without endangering the foundations of good citizenship.

Over the radio they will tell you that upon education depends the very existence of the Nation, and yet the next day you will find them slashing appropriations for the public schools of the Nation's Capital.

It is hard to understand this inconsistency. Maybe their practical interest in education begins and ends back home. But my opinion is that such legislators will never really be much bothered about education unless some day their constituents get too educated to send them back to Congress.

Workers on Small Pay Can Not Live on 30 Hours' Work Per Week. Protest Against Black Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to voice my objection to a bill sponsored by Mr. Black, of New York, to compel private industry to employ help for only 30 hours a week. This bill might be all right for the man who has a trade and draws a large weekly salary, but it is starvation wages for the man who earns only a small salary per week. The poor man is getting such a small salary now that he can hardly exist, and if the hours of the small wage earner are to be reduced he might as well quit.

If the senators and representatives and others who are sponsoring such an outrageous bill as this one think they can live on such wages, let them have their salaries cut down to about $2,000 a year. If such a bill as this were to go into effect, there would be more starving people in America than there are today. I hope that all people who have no trade will voice their disapproval of this bill.

Psychology of a Baseball Fan Analyzed—No Grounds for Temporary Melancholia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post of last Sunday "Baseball Fan" says we can all understand why Washington "has won only two pennants and one world series in the past twenty years after reading the selections made by Clark Griffith, president of the club, of his all-star line-up since 1912." I don't take his viewpoint, but at the same time he has my sympathy. His optimism is probably suffering from the effects of the tiresome between-seasons wait. Loyal and rabid members of the Stove League sometimes get that way before the off season ends. But it will not be long now till he forgets it with desperate shouts of "Come on, Goose!" "Over the fence, Heinie! Good old Heinie," and the like. And next fall "Baseball Fan" will view the Old Fox in a more rosy light when the Nats add another pennant and, maybe, another world series to their record.

The Meanderer

Finds Important Parts, Menus and Recipes for Beer Suppers, and Suitable Clothes Therefor.

The smooth amber-flowing liquid soon to become a part of delightful informal entertaining has caused the Meanderer to list many of the new attractive containers for beer now for sale in Washington shops. Many readers are ready with their mugs and pretzel jars, but for many hosts and hostesses—the younger ones particularly—the proper menus for beer suppers are not so easily obtainable.

Seven menus for beer suppers are available for Meandering readers. In one menu Roquefort crumpets are featured and the recipe for making the crumpets is furnished with the menu. In another an Old English rarebit is suggested, also with accompanying recipe. Hot asparagus on toast with cheese sauce, and broiled fish, and rye bread, of course, form another menu suggestion.

A new type of pretzel finding favor is small and straight, not much larger than a match, and sells a great many in a pound for the newly prized pretzel jar the reader may have at hand. This new pretzel is available in an old established grocery store on Fourteenth street.

Until noon today special fresh loaves of rye bread are selling for 4 cents each, only two to a customer, in two bakeries in the heart of the shopping district.

A cheese dealer in a big market on K street is offering delivery of telephone orders on his complete line of cheese. The Meanderer knows well how complete his line of cheese is, for she spent a lengthy period examining it.

Some informal party clothes may not be inappropos with the parties being planned to celebrate the signing of the beer bill. Sheer yellow mousseline makes one informal supper dress. This has a collar cut in high, boyish turnover line, with a loose brown Windsor tie and brown matching belt for color contrast. A pink dress—the pastel shade often termed "dusty"—has a fetching jacket in short fitted lines with full sleeves, worn over a pink evening dress with the new daring back made of just two straps. Thus the jacketed pink frock could go to the supper, and, unjacketed, the pink, daring evening gown could appear later at a dance or formal party. The yellow dress costs not too much in an F street shop featuring only ready-to-wear garments for women and the pink gown for double duty has only $16.50 on its price tag in a shop on F street at Seventh.

For freshening old gowns or turning a formal gown into an informal one, the use of the separate jackets offered in great variety in the F street store where the Meanderer found the pink dress, is strongly recommended. Most of the jackets are made of organdy and are in many colors, or in black or white. They sell for $2.95.

New England Society's Army Ball Is Tonight

The New England State Society will hold its annual Army Day ball tonight at the Shoreham Hotel. Many other States will have representatives at the celebration and the queen of the evening will be selected from those attending to lead the grand march and open carnival festivities.

An elaborate floor show, under the direction of Phil Hayden, will be presented during intermission.

Another Water Service Line Breaks in School

Another school water service line has broken because the pipe line was laid on insecure foundation, it was revealed to the Board of Education yesterday.

This was at Powell Junior High School on Hiatt Place northwest. The break occurred last Thursday. Two previous pipe breaks occurred at the Brown and Sheppard Schools.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

CORRECTING SELFISHNESS.

A MOTHER is disturbed to observe that her 3-year-old son is extremely selfish.

When other children come to play with him he not only refuses to let them touch his toys but snatches theirs, giving them back only when compelled to.

This fault grows daily worse despite constant efforts to combat it through forcing him to give up what he has taken and punishing him by putting him into a room alone.

The mother wonders whether she has not here a very serious problem and feels that she must either win out on this issue of selfishness or see her child develop into a most ugly and unlovable character. The problem is not a simple one.

Many a conscientious mother is shocked at what she considers the extreme selfishness of her child, especially if the child is her first and she has had little experience with children.

The fact is that all children naturally are selfish. Usually the fault is corrected through contact with other children, all of whom are equally selfish, so that each learns he can not have everything for the simple reason that the others won't let him. In this way the adjustment may be brought about naturally and with less parental pressure.

Trying to force a child to give up his selfishness is always a mistake. It only antagonizes him, especially when it is father or mother who tries to make him give it up.

For this reason the best way of meeting the problem is to provide frequent contacts with other children either in supervised groups, if this is possible, or in casual neighborhood play, if it is not.

Nursery schools and kindergartens, where children from 2 to 6 meet daily to play together, offer the best opportunity to learn fair play, taking turns and sharing.

Today's Recipe

Marmalade Circles.

2 cups pastry flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons fat
2-3 cup milk
3 tablespoons soft butter
4 tablespoons orange marmalade
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with a knife. Mixing with knife, add milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out until 1-3 inch thick Spread with rest of ingredients which have been mixed together. Roll up dough and cut off ½ inch slices. Arrange flat side up on greased baking sheet. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven. Serve hot.

LOOKING AHEAD IN THE BIDDING.

ACCURATE bidding is almost entirely based on the general strength of the hand—both in high cards and distribution. It is very easy to attain a certain degree of preciseness by following closely the rules laid down by authorities, which are based on the common experience of Contract players. These requirements, however, do not meet all the conditions that are faced by a player, particularly on such hands where partner makes an unexpected response. Therefore, it must follow that the foundation of all scientific bidding depends on the knowledge of what one's future course will be after partner's response, even allowing for possible interference from adversaries.

A player with a bedrock minimum should realize that, when opening the bidding, he is doing so with the intention of passing partner's next response. Therefore, if he is a believer in these minimums and is content with these tactics, he can proceed with his bid. If, however, he is averse to passing partner's responses, he should refrain from opening the bidding, as his natural inclination to continue the bidding is bound to result in reaching too high a contract.

For this reason, opening minimums in minor suits is preferable to opening minimums in major suits. When opening with a bid of one in a minor, a player can respond to partner's major suit Takeout of one with no-trump; when opening with one of a major, however, he certainly can not afford to respond to partner's Takeout of two in a minor with two no-trump. His best procedure, then, is to pass even though he is conceding the opponents the first opportunity to bid.

In rebidding, a player is frequently confronted with a choice of offering another suit or merely continuing in his own suit. For instance, an Opening bid of one spade is raised to three spades, and the choice now lies between a four-club bid and a four-spade bid. If the hand is of only slightly greater than minimum strength, the four-spade bid should be preferred, as a bid of four clubs is a mild Slam try, and partner, with a strong double Raise, may be tempted to offer five spades. Therefore, the four-club bid should only be made when partner's possible bid of five spades can be carried to six.

The theory is perhaps most evident when applied to Takeout Doubles, and it is not too strong a statement to say that a Takeout Double should never be made unless every single one of partner's possible responses is considered. Obviously, it would be folly to double an Opening bid of one spade without strong support for hearts, since this is partner's most likely response, and the bidding would have to be carried to three of a minor or to a misfitting two no-trump.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:10 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Danger signals or warnings of some kind or another may be made known to you on this day, if you but watch for them. They foreshadow trouble of a serious nature; trouble, however, which may be completely nullified or alleviated to a great extent if you are aware of its approach.

The child born on this April 6 will quite likely prove himself to be one who will speak his mind without fear of consequences. He will not have a vast army of friends, but he will have several very close ones. Must develop reserve, poise and patience in order to prosper.

If April 6 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely the kind of person who is willing to sit back and let the other fellow do all the work. You can not be called lazy, for there are times when you become extremely active. When you do exert yourself to any degree, it is practically a certainty that it is primarily to your own interests to do so. You are a pleasant enough person to have around when there is no work to be done. You have been about a bit and have picked up a fund of amusing information and stories which you relate interestingly. You are at ease with all kinds of people and above all, you are very even tempered and seldom get upset over anything. To have to spend a great deal of time with you would soon become boring and ere long your presence would begin to wear on one's nerves.

Born on April 6, the type of work you are best suited for is most certainly not straight business of any sort; long and steady hours day after day would irk you. You would be most successful if you could locate yourself in some line in which the personal element would be strong and in which there would be much human interest.

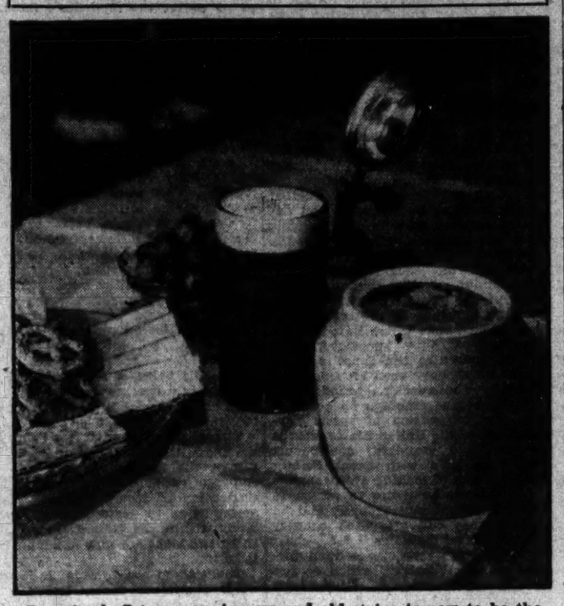
BEER BUFFET ACCESSORIES



Beer for buffet suppers in new and old steins is now to be the most important part of successful informal entertaining. Containers of many sorts have been made ready for serving beer; cheese merchants are expecting heavy sales for the "cheese on rye;" many shops have varieties of pretzels to sell, as well as special rye crackers and sliced bermudas in vinegar and jumbo olives.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

IN THE new lingerie one sees a marked tendency to get away from frills and froth, without, on the other hand, becoming the least bit masculine. The emphasis seems to be on good workmanship and a far greater variety of materials than one has ever seen before. In this variety of materials one finds all the charm of the new lingerie, especially in negligees.

Period types are strangely missing. There seems to be a modernity about the newest negligees that eschews empire lines, puffed sleeves and all the ideas of other days. Luxury is the keynote, and long, slender lines following the unbroken silhouette the style.

Lace is very smart, but by that you mustn't think that I mean frills and ruffles. On the contrary, very good and very expensive lace is used, sometimes heavy as the peau d'ange laces, sometimes quite sheer and of the blond type of lace. And of this type, the all-over models posed over contrasting colored chiffon is very lovely. A platinum-colored lace of this type, for instance, posed over pale chartreuse green, was one of the loveliest combinations I have ever seen.

Satin robes with printed wool linings, in coat negligee styles, are very smart, and manage to remain expressly feminine in appearance.

In night gowns, smarter this season than sleeping pajamas, by the way, satin is staging a decided revival. Indeed, today's night gown might easily be an evening gown, so elegant it is, and cut on very similar lines.

There isn't a single solitary old hat in your wardrobe that you can't make over into a new one for this spring! 'Corse there may be some that you shouldn't try to make over, but there are a lot that you should try to make over, so there. At least that's how I found things when it came to sitting on top of the Andes and wondering what to do with my spare time. You see, I had lots of old-fashioned hats, and lots of time, so the combination resulted in more new hats that I can ever hope to wear in one year! And it all showed me that any one could make over old hats into new, because I never had a millinery lesson in my life, nor even touched a hat, old or new, before—save when buying it. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet if you would like to know what I did—and how, with old hats into new!

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

FEEDING VEGETABLES TO BABIES.

IT is possible to feed a baby vegetables at 6 weeks and at any age thereafter, provided the vegetables are of the right kind and properly prepared. This is about the age when the use of orange juice is begun. Vegetable juice seems to be about as well tolerated as that of the fruits. In the case of tomatoes the claim is made that the product is more beneficial and quite as well tolerated as is the fruit product.

But all fruit juice contains a small amount of the fruit substance and the same can be said for tomato juice. Tomato pulp is much richer in vitamines and minerals than is the juice itself and it follows that tomato pulp should be better for babies if it can be so prepared as to be digestible and nonirritating to the digestive tract. The claim is made that well cooked and well strained vegetables of many kinds meet these requirements. When they are so prepared as that the fiber is softened and pretty well broken up and then all the coarser peel, seeds and shreds are strained out the product is not irritating to the digestive tract of even young babies.

Dr. G. W. Caldwell put this to the test. He selected a line of vegetables that did not contain much pungent oil. For this reason he probably excluded radishes and he may not have used onions nor any member of the onion family.

The vegetables used were young, tender and fresh. Doubtless they were well peeled or hulled, pitted and deprived of all seed parts when there were any. Vegetables composed of well-covered grains, where there is a tendency for the mass to pass through unbroken and therefore unabsorbed, were rejected wholly or else were well broken up before being cooked. The cooking was long-continued and thorough. Prolonged cooking makes members of the cabbage group indigestible, but on practically all other vegetables it has the opposite effect. Finally the well-cooked vegetables were well strained.

The resultant food, perhaps after the addition of some of the cook water, was fed to 50 breast-fed babies ranging in age from 6 weeks to 9 months. It was begun by small feedings, mixed with milk or not, and given from a spoon, cup or bottle. One ounce a day was about the starting allowance. Older children got it more often and in larger amount.

Usually the baby had to acquire a taste for the new food, as is the case with orange and tomato juice.

The rule was that the babies thrived exceptionally well.

The evidence indicates that if babies become constipated, as so many of them do, the addition of well-cooked and well-strained vegetables, or even of clear vegetable soups and liquors, to the diet overcomes the bowel condition.

Stocks Again Start Climbing On Increased Sales Volume

Five-Tenths Upturn Results as Trading Mounts to 1,141,650 Shares.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Stocks overcame their recent indifference today.

Extreme gains of 1 to 3 points were not fully maintained; in fact, they shaded mostly to fractions. But the market rallied from its lethargy and sales of 1,141,650 shares were the largest since March 17.

Pressure against rails during the late afternoon bore down on the entire list after earlier hours of higher prices. Chicago & North Western securities were notably weak, the stock dropping 1½ to a price of 1½, while the bonds reacted sharply. Union Pacific, which has an interest in that road, was off 4 points, and there were sympathetic declines of fractions to more than a point for Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, New York Central and Delaware & Hudson. Norfolk & Western was off 2½.

Stocks with a commodity flavor, especially sugars, foods, farm implements, metals and tobaccos, made considerable progress while the market was moving upgrade. This strength as well as that of grains appeared to be in anticipation of measures for strengthening prices. In this connection, the Senate Agricultural Committee's report, including the Thomas supplement, was interesting news.

At the close, United States Steel, American Can, Du Pont, Case, Harvester, American Tobacco "B," North American, General Foods, National Biscuit, California Packing, Cuban-American Sugar, American Smelting and United States Smelting were up about half a point. General Mills, United States Steel preferred, Liggett & Myers "B," Union Carbide, Owens Illinois, Penick & Ford and Allied Chemical retained net gains of one point or more. American Telephone lost all but one-eighth of an extreme 2½-point advance.

Wall street's feeling is that certain reorganizations, along the line of Missouri Pacific's, will probably be forthcoming and this expectation has been reflected in market action of carrier stocks for the past week, even though traffic figures and prospects are more favorable. Shippers' advisory boards estimate a decrease of less than 1 per cent in second-quarter loadings from actual volume for that period last year.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Oil shares were the feature on the stock exchange today on hopes of international cooperation regarding production. The market was generally cheerful, with improvements being registered in transatlantic issues, gilt-edged securities, motor shares and kaffirs, the latter on South African support. German bonds weakened in the afternoon and the market closed steady.

Paris—Despite the irregularity which developed in French issues, prices on the bourse displayed a good tone. Rentes led the upward trend, which included international issues, the improvement in prices being attributed to the easing of the international political situation. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse closed dull after a cheerful opening.

Stocks.

Indifference yielded to a new upturn in values from 1 to 3 points, which netted a half point at the close. Trading activity increased to 1,141,650 shares.

Bonds.

Fluctuations of specialties occupied the bond market, and the final result was a loss of one-tenth of a point. Sales totaled $11,074,000.

Curb.

Prices moved quietly forward in early trading, but lost some in closing sales. The volume of trading increased to 130,000 shares.

Wheat.

Soaring prices marked dealing in wheat and other grains. Losses of crops started heavy speculative buying. May wheat sold at 56⅝ to 56¾ cents.

Cotton.

Trading was more active and increased buying sent prices 3 to 6 points higher. July sold at 6.56; May at 6.42. Bombay sold in Liverpool.

BOND MARKET DIPS IN SPECIALTY DRIVE

Final Loss Is One-Tenth in Heavier Sale Total of $11,074,000.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Gyrations of specialties occupied the principal attention of the bond market today, but, in the final tally of the ups and downs, the latter were in a slight majority.

While a number of rallies were scattered throughout the recently depressed groups, there were, at the same time, some noticeably weak spots which tended to restrict a sustained forward movement. Due to the activity in a few sectors, the sales volume increased to a total of $11,074,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off one-tenth of a point.

Although the United States Government list was steady to firm, German obligations slumped 1 to around 4 points following publication of the Reichsbank's offer to repay the $70,000,000 outstanding credit to foreign central banks, which will sharply reduce its reserves. The Argentines and Belgians were heavy, but Japanese bonds recovered and the Brazilians were firm.

Various domestic secondary rails liens lost early gains when issues of Chicago & Northwestern were subjected to pressure which brought recessions in this group ranging from 1 to around 8 points. One bond of the road's stamped general 4s changed hands for the first time this year at 36, a loss of 24 points from the last previous sale. It was announced that the Northwestern's refunding plan for its $6,555,000 debentures, due on May 1, had been approved by holders of 87½ per cent of the outstanding obligations.

A number of other carrier liens followed the Northwestern Railway, dropping 1 to 2 points. At the same time issues of St. Paul, Chicago & Western Indiana, Erie and Missouri Pacific retained moderate gains.

Advances and declines in the utilities and industrials were about even and trading in these groups generally was quiet.

SILK MARKET.

New York April 5 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed steady; sales, 650 bales. May, 1.13b; July, 1.11b; October, 1.12. Open market quotations (60-day basis) —Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20/22s, 1.10. Canton double extra "A", 14/16s, .92. Japanese special crack double extra 81 per cent seriplane, 13/15s, 1.27.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Moderate trading in unfinished cotton goods continued today while finished lines continued to move well for prompt shipment. Sales of 100 denier rayon yarns for immediate delivery were reported. Some small orders are coming forward for May. Children's clothing lines are more active. Burlaps were steady and quiet.

100 Business Leaders Sign Program to Start Upturn

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—A 5-point inflation plan, which its exponents believe would "restart industry and give rapidly increasing employment," was outlined tonight by "The Committee for the Nation to Rebuild Prices and Purchasing Power."

The program is called "The Next Five Steps."

It is signed by five members of the "Directing Committee," and also by 100 prominent business leaders, industrialists and economists.

The "five steps," in brief, are:

"1. Recognize that bank deposits constitute the Nation's important medium of exchange. Therefore, the reopening of the maximum number of banks must be expedited and deposits unfrozen as rapidly as possible by a very broad and liberal use of the powers granted the administration by recent emergency legislation. In the opinion of the committee, the Government would be justified in expanding currency to protect the depositors of banks which have not yet reopened. • • • The Government should guarantee the deposits of all banks which have been reopened and which have been declared sound. • • •

"2. Continue embargo on gold export and suspension of specie payment before the United States returns to the gold standard, conferences should be held with Great Britain with the aim of making arrangements for these two countries to return to the gold basis simultaneously and on a basis that will give each country the price level it desires. • • •

"3. Remove restrictions upon foreign exchange dealings which do not involve export of gold. Discontinue the efforts to keep the dollar at its former gold parity. The British pound sterling and other foreign exchanges must advance in the price-level in the United States. By pegging the dollar in foreign exchange, we have held down our price-level as completely as though we had not suspended gold payments. We must resume the free dealing in sterling and other foreign exchange. If this does not suffice, the United States should sell dollar exchange to depress the price so that foreign countries can acquire it at lower cost to pay their debts to us and to use it in buying goods from American agriculture and industry • • •

"4. It should be announced forthwith that prior to lifting the embargo on gold at a future date, it will be the policy of the United States to revalue gold. It is the opinion of the committee that in this revaluation, the United States Treasury should raise the price of gold from $20.67 per ounce to a new price of $36.17 per ounce. This is an increase of 75 per cent—an arbitrary temporary level, estimated to bring the commodity price level to a 1926 base. • • •

"5. A Federal nonpartisan board should be created to stabilize the United States general price-level of wholesale commodity prices at 100. This is the average of the United States Bureau of Labor price-levels from 1921 to 1930. • • •"

The committee says that if this program were adopted it would "have as its object the immediate increase of prices and a continuing increase that will gradually carry prices back to where they were in 1926."

In discussing suggestion No. 4, the report said:

"The mere knowledge that such a program of establishing a higher dollar price for gold is planned would start the price-level upward.

"Such basis commodities as cotton, wheat, hides and copper would rise rapidly. This price increase would quickly spread to other products.

"Consumers would begin to buy, dealers and wholesalers would buy from manufacturers, and industry would be set in motion. • • •

"World commodities would continue to exchange for practically the same amount of gold as previously, but each ounce would represent a larger number of dollars in the United States.

"At this point, a new stabilization board would operate to maintain the then existing price level within a narrow range of fluctuation."

The report said that in February the committee "forecast, among other things, the impending need for (a) embargo of gold exports, and, (b) suspension of specie payments, as a prerequisite to restoration of price levels within the United States, and these two steps are now accomplished facts."

The signers are Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman, Sears, Roebuck & Co.; F. H. Sexhauer, president, Dairymen's League Cooperative Association; F. H. Frazier, chairman, General Baking Co.; Vincent Bendix, president, Bendix Aviation Co., and J. H. Rand, president, Remington Rand Co., as members of the "directing committee."

Among the 100 other singers are: Philip K. Wrigley, president, William Wrigley, jr., Co.; L. J. Taber, master, National Grange; Irving Fisher, Yale economist; F. C. Williams, Investment Banker; E. L. Cord, president, Cord Corporation.

CURB RISE TRIMMED IN CLOSING TRADING

Prices Move Forward in Increased Sales of 130,000 Shares.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—The curb market moved quietly forward during most of today's session, but slid back somewhat in the last hour in sympathy with a late reaction on the big board. Sales approximated 130,000 shares.

Curb members were keenly interested in the inquiry of the State Securities Bureau into practices of the Curb, partly the admission of many securities to "unlisted trading." These securities are dealt in without complying with the regular listing requirements. For some time curb officials have had under consideration means of making a sharper distinction between the fully listed securities and those only admitted to trading to prevent public misunderstanding.

Oils displayed a little more life, with Gulf getting up 2 points, although it reacted a fraction from the top. Utilities encountered late pressure. Gains of major fractions in Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric were converted into minor fractional net losses. Niagara Hudson, which reported 1932 net of $1.07 a share, rose ½ point, then lost half its gains. In the industrials Aluminum rose 3, then slid back 2 from the best. A. O. Smith advanced 2 points in a fair turnover for that issue and closed at the top. Deere was firm, along with wheat, although it closed off a fraction from the top. In the mines Newmont and Bunker Hill gained more than a point in light trading.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Men's clothing—Orders received by manufacturers and wholesalers in the closing weeks of March were "sufficiently large to indicate that total business for the current season will be of sizeable volume," says a trade survey by Dun & Bradstreet. Substantial shipments well through Easter are assured.

Steel—Larger automobile production schedules and requirements of the brewing industry have contributed to an increased demand for steel, says Iron Age, which estimates production at 16½ per cent of capacity this week against 15 per cent last week. Orders for steel beer kegs have improved sheet tonnage at Chicago.

Dried fruits—Spot prices are showing considerable steadiness in the New York market, but interest is light. Several acute shortages of stocks are reported.

Crude drugs—Scarcity of some items is being reflected in an upward price trend. Demand, however, is generally quiet.

Lead—The market is currently dull and orders are confined to carlots, mostly for May shipment. Dealers describe the present market as routine.

1928 Crash Forecaster Now Sees Great Boom

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—James Truslow Adams, who says his prediction of the Wall street crash in 1928 was "very unpopular," now sees the possibility of a "stupendous boom" in America.

"I look to see recovery within the next two years, and possibly within one," said the banker-turned-historian today.

"I believe we may be on the threshold of a new frontier—a frontier of scientific discovery which may mean a stupendous boom. I can't predict that, but it's a possibility.

"The conquest of America's last frontier — the West — gold, cattle, wheat, timber—which created so much national wealth and made so many fortunes may be repeated when science opens new vistas for us."

WHEAT VALUES SOAR ON CROP-LOSS DATA

All Grains Set New Highs as Speculation Starts; Provisions Drop.

Chicago, April 5 (A.P.).—Soaring prices for grains today swept almost the entire list to fresh top records for the season. In some cases there was a maximum rise of 3 cents a bushel.

Sensationally adverse crop reports went hand in hand with Washington legislative developments, which many traders took as indicating that every governmental aid practicable would be afforded to bring about higher agricultural values. A Senate committee report recommending an increased volume of money be placed in circulation received particular attention in many quarters.

Big speculative buying developed in wheat and corn especially, and prices closed strong at nearly the day's top. Wheat, 1 to 1⅜ cents above yesterday's finish; corn, ⅝ to ⅞ cent up; oats, ¼ to ½ cent advance, and rye showing 2⅞ to 3 cents jump. Provisions were unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

Wheat Rise Starts.

Bulges in wheat values today began after trade attention focused on railroad advices that only 50,000,000 bushels of wheat would be raised this season in Kansas, compared with a five-year average of 170,000,000 bushels. Then followed word that freezing temperatures were likely over Kansas tonight, threatening further damage to crops, and that a return to wintry conditions in Northwestern States gave menace of increased delay to spring seeding. Unfavorable crop advices from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were additional incentives for buyers.

Greatly broadening speculative demand for wheat and all cereals became apparent in the late dealings. Houses with Eastern connections were aggressive buyers at this stage and there was free purchasing also for Chicago professional traders, with decidedly augmented interest shown on the part of the general public. At times public buying appeared to exceed in volume any witnessed in months.

Contributing to the purchase fever was an unofficial estimate that domestic stores of wheat in all positions were 50,000,000 bushels less than this time last year.

Rye owed its exceptional advance today largely to flurried buying for Easterners and to a dearth of offerings.

Corn and oats rose with wheat and as a result of an official estimate that the Argentine corn crop would be almost 30,000,000 bushels under last year's total.

Provisions trade was neglected.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

July Sells at 6.56 as General Market Rises 3 to 6 Points.

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was more active today. An irregular opening was followed by advances on covering combined with trade and commission house buying. July contracts sold up from 6.51 to 6.64, or 11 points net higher, but realizing was encountered at this figure and that delivery closed at 6.56. The market closed at net gains of 3 to 6 points.

Houses with Liverpool and Japanese connections were early sellers, but offerings were readily taken, and after easing to 6.35 for May and 6.72 for October, prices turned steadier.

Liverpool continued to sell here during the first hour, but little or no pressure was reported from the South, and prices worked gradually higher during the middle of the day.

Buying in Small Lots.

The buying was mostly in small lots, but appeared to be more general than recently and was accompanied by reports of a better demand from the mills. May sold up to 6.47 and October to 6.85, making net advances of 8 to 11 points on active months and the highest prices touched here since the decline of late last month. The demand tapered off at the advance, however, and closing prices showed reactions of 5 to 8 points from the best under realizing.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet market there with Bombay selling of near months offset by American straddle buying of new crops. Part of the selling here through houses with Liverpool connections was attributed to Bombay interests.

Report to the New York Cotton Exchange service placed the current Peruvian crop at 220,000 bales against 190,000 last season. Exports today 38,155 making 6,272,269 so far this season. Port receipts 7,623. U. S. port stocks 4,318,390.

TAX RATE REVEALED IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Ten-Hour Session Is Held by Board of Supervisors to Fix Schedule.

Discrimination Against Teachers Heard in Cut

"The school teacher is the only official or employe in Fairfax County, Va., who must have an education to hold her job," was the statement of Mrs. A. Harmon Roberts, of Mount Vernon District, at the public hearing on the county budget yesterday.

The statement was made to the Board of Supervisors during a discussion against reduction of teachers' salaries for next year, after it was shown that the average salary of the teachers was approximately $800 a year as compared to other employes and officials drawing from $1,200 to $4,500 a year.

The citizens of Fairfax County, Va., will pay taxes this fall on a rate ranging from $1.30 in Lee and Centreville districts to $2.75 in Dranesville district based on the $100 property valuation, according to the rates adopted yesterday during a 10-hour session of the county board of supervisors.

The tax rate that applies to all districts was divided as follows: General county fund, 20 cents, reduced from 45 cents last year; a 4-cent fire protection levy, a 6-cent Confederate pension rate and a $1 rate for schools, an increase of 10 cents from last year.

In addition to the general rate of $1.20, Dranesville District will pay a 25-cent levy for school bonds and a $1.20 rate for road bond issues, a decrease of 5 cents from last year; Falls Church District will have a special school levy of 25 cents and a road bond levy of 45 cents, a total decrease of 10 cents from last year; Providence District will pay a 5-cent special school levy and a 15-cent road bond levy, a total decrease of 5 cents from last year; Mount Vernon District is the only one to show an increase, which is necessitated by the new levy for additional school facilities. The rate in this district will be 20 cents for special school levy and a 20-cent rate for road bond issues, making a total increase of 10 cents. The rate in Centerville and Lee Districts were reduced 10 cents from last year.

School Rate Increased.

The reduction in the general county rate was taken up by the 10-cent increase in the general county school rate, the increase of 1 cent in the pension fund rate and the 4-cent fire protection rate, which was included in the general county levy last year. The special rates in several districts also were increased to meet deficits in the bond issue sinking funds.

In considering the tentative budget prior to its adoption for the fiscal year of 1933-34 slight changes were made from the original draft. The county traffic police were reduced to $100 per month, effecting a savings of $725.40 in police protection; the fund for hospitalization of indigent poor was reduced $500 the health unit reduced $500; the insurance premiums on county building was reduced $446.81 and $60 was saved from appropriations for the county treasurers office. These reductions, totaling $2,232.21, together with balances in the old county road fund which has been abolished, and the surplus in the general county fund, makes the total to be raised for general county purposes this fall $25,188.73. The total assessed property valuation in Fairfax County is $16,592,297, including the town of Falls Church.

Conflicting Opinions.

Prior to the meeting for adoption of the county budget the supervisors held a public hearing on the various items in the tentative budget, during which conflicting opinions and recommendations were advanced. Representatives of the County Taxpayers League advocated reduction in practically all items and the practical abolition of many county activities. The County Chamber of Commerce ask that all county officials receiving fees have the salary paid by the county reduced to the minimum allowed by State law. Next to schools the county police fund received the greatest support the citizens holding the police to be the greatest benefit to the people.

In supporting the schools the citizens advocated an increase in the tax rate in preference to any reduction and urged that the teacher salary scale be maintained. It was stated that the county was ranked sixty-third of the 100 counties in Virginia in the matter of teacher salary.

An attack was made on the Virginia fee system for the payment of compensation for county officials. Former Representative R. Walton Moore and Delegate Edmund H. Allen led the discussion against the system, declaring it to be antiquated and an illogical division of power between the State and county. By it the State hindered the progress of counties, they said. They stated that they were in favor of replacing it with a straight salary system under the control of the local governments. The 200 persons present were in accord with their ideas on the fee system.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

AMONG recent restorations made by W. H. Egberts, chief preparator, and his assistant, W. H. Bray, preparator, National Museum, is an Egyptian mummy, one of the very few in this country. The cloth the ancients used in mummifying, while coarse, was well woven. Today it shows the strain of centuries of endurance.

Mr. Egberts and Mr. Bray have just completed the task of restoration of the mummy and seven mummy cases which will resume their places among the rare objects.

The mummy measures 5 feet 6 inches, is delicately proportioned and is altogether a very good specimen. No hieroglyphics or inscriptions have thus far been found, either on the mummy or on the outer case, which is also in a good state of preservation.

The face and head of the mummy are covered by a mask of green cement, the part covering the face being gilded. A black streak one-half inch wide extends down the cheeks and across the chin, from eye to eye.

Side by side on the chest lie four small tablets about the size of playing cards, each one having upon it a mummified figure of Osiris in a standing position.

Two shield-shaped ornaments lie across the breast and stomach, respectively; the upper one has upon it the sacred beetle with spread wings, beneath which is a Nilometer standing between the two figures which support a globe upon the head. The faces of the figures are covered by a square piece of gold leaf; at the end of the wings is represented the hawk head of Ra, also supporting a globe.

Over the surface of the shield are painted representations of jewelry. On the lower figure appears a kneeling figure of Nepte, with extended arms and wings. She wears a headband upon her head, upon which rests a globe.

On either side of Nepte are two groups, each containing three small figures. Ostrich plumes appear in the corner of the shield.

Along the leg of the mummy lies a sheet of linen, cemented (papier mache) at the top of which is a mummy on a dog-shaped bier. At the head of the bier is a kneeling figure holding an ostrich plume. Below this is a row of kneeling figures holding ostrich plumes.

Farther down is a second Nilometer, on either hide of which a figure with an implement in each hand faces two mummied figures, both of which have the faces concealed with a square piece of gold leaf. The feet are encased in a covering of cemented linen.

CROP Production Loan continues to be that haven for many "who otherwise would be in breadlines." With 1,100 workers on the books, 300 will say good-by in another ten days. This is the peak time of the year. The work will begin to slant downward soon.

Some workers are on the job even on Sundays, we learn, and it is entirely voluntary. Congressmen are not allotted a definite number of nominees for jobs, but effort is made to keep the ratio fairly well balanced.

Representatives and senators who thought the patronage situation would have ironed out its own kinks before now find they can do nothing but recommend for a job at C. P. L. for the time being. Others, although they have no definite debt to fulfill, send their "nominees" to C. P. L. so their telephones will not ring so often.

From Georgia come 30 per cent of loan requests in the 19 States served from Washington. Georgia and the Carolinas call for 80 per cent of loans in the region. So Georgia must be served in placing applicants.

This is refreshing, since Missouri and Utah so recently commanded most of the steady work at C. P. L.

Applications, once 500 daily, now dwindling to 100 daily.

"No friction." Everything working smoothly.

There you have C. P. L. situation in a nutshell.

DR. T. P. WHITE, Animal Industry, steps into the spotlight as one of Agriculture's representative Omar Khayyams. Professionally, he interests himself in preventing the spread of hog cholera among the swine of the Nation.

Every now and then, by way of diversion, he dips his pen in ink, eases his soul in beautiful ideas, and then expresses his thoughts on paper. His latest production in rhyme—"On Time"—follows:

Miss A in her circle was Rated as a fine stenog.
In the wheel of daily duties
'Deed, she never missed a cog.
She was great on fast dictation,
And her typing was a rhyme,
She was "good" when she got started,
But she couldn't be on time.

Doctor B had loads of science,
He just loved his microscope.
In the realm of germs and virus
He was there with all the dope.
He could spike the fleeting atom;
Analyze the new ensyme;
He could lure the wily microbe;
But he couldn't be on time.

Came the day when work was ended,
When retirement drew near.
Then good-by to lab. and office,
To associates most dear.
Soon the kindly Master called them
To their happiness sublime.
At His word they promptly obeyed.
And for once they were on time.

Moral: DON'T WAIT TILL YOU DIE TO BE ON TIME.

Why worry about green grass on Commerce lawn?

Green grass and a park bench!
A lassie, a laddie.
I smile, for the lassie's heart is gay.
The laddie he moves—and moves up closer to her.
And she does not care.

—AND SUNDAY, TOO!

THOSE who read the Federal Diary daily can do the same Sundays. The Diary runs on Sunday.

Many have said, "I read the Federal Diary during the week but I didn't know it was published seven days a week." So this is to tell them.

AGRICULTURE furnished two of the four winners in the Federal Diary's recent jigsaw puzzle party. Mrs. B. W. Townsend, Agriculture, was one of the prize winners. The puzzle party is only one of a series of events the Federal Diary plans for its readers' entertainment.

ROOSEVELT ORDERS GOLD BE RETURNED

Prison or Fine Faces Those Hoarding Metal or Certificates After May 1.

borne by the Treasury. The Federal Reserve Banks and all member banks are to act as agents for the Secretary of the Treasury in these operations.

The President's Executive order recalls that a fine of $10,000 or up to ten years' imprisonment is assessed in the law of March 9 for violation of the gold-hoarding regulations.

In proclaiming the Executive order yesterday afternoon, the White House remarked upon the encouraging return of gold and gold certificates to the Federal Reserve System since the banking resumption on March 13. Currency in excess of $1,200,000,000 has been returned to the Federal Reserve Banks. Of this amount more than $600,000,000 was in gold or gold certificates.

Many persons throughout the United States, it was observed officially, have hastened to turn in gold as an expression of their faith in the Government, and as a result of their desire to be helpful in the emergency. There are obviously others, however, who have waited for the Government to issue a formal call for the return of gold.

Under the administrative plan tentatively agreed upon, only those will encounter difficulties who seek to hoard gold from the central banking system and tend thus to shrink the solid currency base of the United States.

Order Is Comprehensive.

"All persons are hereby required to deliver on or before May 1, 1933, to a Federal Reserve Bank, or a branch or agency thereof, or to any member bank of the Federal Reserve System, all gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates now owned by them or coming into their ownership on or before April 28, 1933," the Executive order said in its blanket clause. The exemptions followed.

The last Federal Reserve bulletin showed total monetary gold stocks in the United States as of February 25 aggregating, $4,450,000,000. Of this amount, however, only $2,951,750,000 was under the direct control of the Federal Reserve System. The balance, under normal arrangements, would have been divided between State and private banks and private hoards outside of banks.

The mobilization of these ineffective gold supplies is the major objective of the President's order. At the same time, the strong central control of international gold movements is intended to work as insurance against dollar-raiding in Europe, since, under the rigid licensing control, exports to balance purely speculative accounts will not be permitted.

Branch Banking Impasse.

While the President pressed for the more efficient use of the country's gold stocks, the subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which has charge of the Glass bill, met again on that measure without reaching an agreement on the controversial issue of branch banking.

Senator Glass and other supporters of this broad measure for banking reform are pressing for action at the present session of Congress. The bill was passed by the Senate last session, after the historic Long filibuster, but died in the House.

Branch banking and a Federal insurance fund to back national bank deposits are the points of principal difference in the subcommittee.

Members expressed the view informally last night that probably no agreement could be reached until President Roosevelt defined his views on the question of branch banking for all national banks, the point on which Senator Long built his filibuster last session.

THEATER AUDIENCE CHEERS ROOSEVELT

McHenry Howe, of the White House secretariat; Mrs. Howe and their son, and a Secret Service detail headed by Col. Starling and Dick Jervis, presidential escorts through many administrations. They were shown to their places by Henry Talbert, for more than a quarter of a century the National's director of public comfort.

Reviving a custom that has become almost forgotten from disuse, but one which was welcomed with hearty acclaim last night, when President Roosevelt appeared at the entrance to the box on the arm of his son, John, the orchestra, under the conductorship of the veteran Chris Arth, who has played for many Presidents, struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner," the audience rose to its feet and burst into tumultuous applause that continued through more than half of the National Anthem and burst out again before its final note had died away.

In attending the theater within a month of his inauguration, almost to a day, President Roosevelt reestablishes the liaison between the White House and the theater that was broken throughout the span of former President Hoover's term in office. Unlike his predecessors in an unbroken line reaching back into the last century, President Hoover did not attend the theater.

Following last night's final curtain, Frieda Inescort, Selena Royle, Spring Byington, Herbert Rawlinson, Walter Abel, Robert Lowes and Auguste Aramini, comprising the cast of "When Ladies Meet," joined the audience in another graceful tribute of applause and appreciation to the distinguished guest who, by his presence, had brought back memories of another Roosevelt who occupied the White House 25 years ago and had restored a lost note to theater-going in the Capital.

Lawyer Says Vallees Have Finally Parted

New York, April 5 (A.P.).—Hyman Bushell, attorney for Rudy Vallee, announced tonight that the Vallees "have finally, definitely reached the parting of the ways."

Mrs. Vallee plans to return West tomorrow with her father, Clarence Webb, chief of police at Santa Monica, Calif. Bushell said a property settlement had been arranged, but no agreement has been reached "as to whether there shall be a divorce."

Convicts Aid Firemen.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 5 (A.P.). Convicts assisted the city fire department in extinguishing a blaze which started today in the sawmill of the Missouri Penitentiary chair factory. Damage was placed at $12,500.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is to be expected, of course, that Washington always will be the last city in the country to feel the pinch of economic and industrial adversity. With a majority of the Capital's theatergoers deriving fixed incomes from the Government and therefore being able to budget their funds accurately and unfailingly year in and year out, the theaters can rely on an adequate income for maintenance under normal conditions.

Local theater interests for this reason are perhaps more chagrined than they would otherwise be that the depression has only now hit this city just at a time when all the rest of the country shows signs of recovering from the long period of tight money and tough going.

For Washington IS feeling the depression, unless all signs fail. Business these past two weeks has been decidedly off. It will be more acutely off, in the ordinary course of events, next week—Holy Week—than it has been at any time yet. The combination of blanket salary reductions in the Federal and District establishments, as well as throughout the commercial structure, the arrival of Holy Week and the coming, presumably, of the first touch of genuinely springlike weather is one that the playhouses will find it difficult to combat. And, literally, hot on the heels of all that, will come real summer weather which never has proved of tonic effect to box-office grosses.

That an upward swing has set in outside of Washington is indicated by the statistical report carried in the last issue of Sime Silverman's Variety, that theater attendance has jumped from a weekly average of 54,000,000 during the bank holiday to 80,000,000 at the present time. Translated into terms of money, average box-office receipts have climbed from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 per week.

Perhaps the fact that President Roosevelt, one month after assuming office, found it possible and enjoyable to attend the theater last evening, may be construed as a tacit indication that the crisis is past and an encouraging omen that in something more than theory, "happy days are here again"—or are about to be.

This afternoon, at 4:45 o'clock, in Constitution Hall, the National Symphony Orchestra, Hans Kindler, conductor, will be heard in its last concert of the season. An especially noteworthy program has been arranged and it is a foregone conclusion that those who attend will come away with redoubled determination not to let this splendid organization founder for lack of support. Subscriptions for next season's maintenance fund are now being received—and vigorously solicited—by the management and sponsors.

Another "last time" will be observed in the National Theater Saturday morning when the Children's Theater Company of New York, directed by Mrs. Clare Tree Major, will present "Little Women," Louisa Alcott's classic, as the last of a series of six plays, under the auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Mrs. Major will appear in a dual role on this occasion.

While Washington is awaiting Maestro Alfredo Salmaggi's production of "Rigoletto" in the Belasco Theater Sunday night, April 23, with Nino Martini and Maria Serrano in the principal roles, Baltimore is enjoying a Spring Festival of opera by the French-Italian Opera Company, opening at the Maryland Theater on Monday night, April 17.

G. L. Debalta, representing the French-Italian Company, during a brief visit to this desk yesterday afternoon, imparted the information that nine operas will be presented in eight performances during the Baltimore engagement. This is only possible by changing the bill at every afternoon and night performance and presenting the customary double-bill of "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci" at one of them.

An earlier visitor during the week was C. P. Greneker, general press representative of the Shuberts, in Washington in the interest of Edouard Bourdet's new play, "Best Seller," to be given its first performance in America at the National on Monday, April 17, with Peggy Wood and Ernest Truex costarred.

Mr. Greneker was emphatic in his statement that Claude Rains, who succeeded Earl Larrimore in the illjudged production of the Davis dramatization of Mrs. Pearl S. Buck's "The Good Earth," while it was at the National early this season, would not appear in "Best Seller" as variously reported, and that Ian Keith, announced to be seen with Tallulah Bankhead in "Forsaking All Others," but absent when that spicy comedy reached here, would.

Mr. Greneker, furthermore, was loaded to the gunwales with laudatory appraisals of "Best Seller," relayed to him from the other side, where it has been a Paris success under the title of "Just Out."

Earl Larrimore, if every coincidence must be run down and labeled, is the husband of Selena Royle, one of the charming leading women currently appearing at the National in Rachel Crothers' "When Ladies Meet," the play attended by the President last evening.

Also present at the National last evening was Nancy Sheridan, former leading woman with Stephen E. Cochran's National Theater Players, in company with her sister, Miss Penn, of Seattle, Wash.

Miss Sheridan came to Washington from New York some days ago especially to meet her sister, here on Government business, whom she had not seen for several years. Learning that the President contemplated a visit to the theater last night, they remained in Washington an extra day in order to attend the same performance.

Miss Sheridan will be pleasantly and gratefully remembered by Washington theatergoers for a remarkably fine performance of the role of Nina Leeds in Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" with the Nat. Players summer before last.

Speaking of the National Theater Players, it was recalled at the National last night that the first attraction the late President Calvin Coolidge honored by his presence in that house was "No, No, Nanette," in which Julia Sanderson, Frank Crumit and Ona Munson were featured. Miss Munson was ingenue with the Players last summer and it is a widely expressed hope among the regular subscribers that she will be back this year.

However, before she can possibly get here—if she is going to at all—these new pictures already will have played the downtown, first-run houses the week beginning most any day you like, according to the house: RKO-Keith's, Katharine Hepburn in "Christopher Strong," beginning today; Palace, Gloria Swanson in "Perfect Understanding" and special added feature, "Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour;" Earle, Evalyn Knapp and Thelma Todd in "Air Hostess," and Cab Calloway and His Cotton Club Orchestra headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, Jimmy Dunn and Sally Eilers in "Sailor's Luck," and "The Desert Song" on the stage; Rialto, Carole Lombard in "Virtue," opening Saturday; Metropolitan, Dorothea Wieck and Hertha Thiele in "Maedchen in Uniform;" Columbia, Lionel Atwill and Fay Wray in "The Vampire Bat," opening Monday.

Pursuant to a custom followed by many theaters during Holy Week, the National will be dark next week.

Which, come to think of it, is the way a good many people probably will prefer their beer!

NATS HAMMER BRAVES' PITCHING FOR 7-3 VICTORY

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE poetry of grace and the pinnacle of the art of playing first base will be unveiled for the delectation of local baseball connoisseurs this afternoon when Joe Judge, in Brooklyn regalia, resumes business at his old stand in Griffith Stadium.

The Brooklyn first basing job has been assigned Judge this season to have and to hold barring a miraculous return to form of Delivering Del Bissonette of the game leg, and it was said in Washington yesterday by one who ought to know that Bissonette's full recovery will indeed be a miracle, so serious is the leg ailment of the fence-busting Brooklynite who spent all of last season and much of last winter under the care of a battery of specialists.

As a civilian, Bissonette can get about tolerably on his remodeled underpinning, but as a ball player the big first baseman is seriously handicapped by the leg that has undergone a succession of operations which have left great scars that bespeak the seriousness of its condition.

Judge Need Not Fear Rival At His Best.

Even with Bissonette at his best, Judge would be in the competition with both feet, but the Brooklyn powers that be have now conceded that Bissonette will be of little or no value until midseason, if then.

Bissonette or no other National League first baseman, and that goes for Jim Bottomley and Charley Grimm, ever saw the day when they would not suffer in camparison with Judge in the duties around first base.

And the team that packs the hitting punch of the Dodgers should well be able to carry the batting average of Judge, even if the Washington veteran's transfer to the National League and its preponderant curve-ball pitching does not hike his batting average by several points. And at this writing it seems logical that Judge, a lifetime .300 hitter in the American League, should not be unduly troubled by the National League style of serving 'em up from the pitching mound.

Another candidate in the field for the Brooklyn first base job is Lu Blue, who was in Washington yesterday awaiting the arrival of the Dodgers today. The former White Sox, Detroit and St. Louis first sacker, who used to call Washington his home, probably will sign a Brooklyn contract today as a free lancer.

Speaking of the disaster to the blimp that went to the rescue of the Akron, Shanty Hogan was catching for the Braves yesterday. When Hogan squats behind the plate, the Braves' pitchers have a target that is a target. There is no truth to the rumor that they had to dismantle the pass gate to let him in the park.

"Bottle" Cox, the reformed local sandlotter who umpired at third base yesterday, is as easy to step over as walk around. His dark blue outfit formed an excellent background for the hitters at the plate.

The dusky occupants of the right field pavilion carried on raucously in the late innings of the game yesterday for art's sake—Art Shires, who was also in good voice.

7 Under Par, Dunlap Is Winner

Wilson, 1 Under Par, Fails to Win Hole at Pinehurst.

Warner, Toomer and Goodwin Reach Semifinal Play.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5 (A.P.).—There was magic in his putter today, and George T. Dunlap, jr., slender blond golfer from Garden City, crushed Dick Wilson, Southern Pines star, 5 and 4, in the quarter-finals of the North and South amateur tournament, despite a splendid brand of golf played by the former Georgetown University linksman.

Wilson toured the 18 holes in 70, 1 under par; but so brilliant was Dunlap's putting, the Southern Pines entry failed to win a hole.

Dunlap, twice intercollegiate champion when he was a member of the Princeton team, played out the 18 holes in 64, 7 strokes under par, to equal the course record set by Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., professional. He dropped putts frequently from 15 and 20 feet, and sent one of 60 feet rolling across the sand green into the cup.

Dunlap Plays Warner Today.

In the semifinal round tomorrow, Dunlap, who won medal honors with a sensational 137, will meet M. Pierpont Warner, of New Haven, Yale student and defending champion, who advanced by a 4 and 3 victory over Jimmy Robbins, of Philadelphia.

Tommy Goodwin, of Monroe, N. Y., and Jack Toomer, of Jacksonville, the Florida champion, will meet in the other semifinal match.

Goodwin shot par golf to vanquish Johnny Parker, of Orange, N. J., captain of the Yale team, 6 and 5. Toomer defeated Funitaka Konoye, Lawrenceville, N. J., prep school student, whose father is a prince in Japan, by a score of 4 and 2.

Dunlap's 60-foot putt came on the par 5 sixth hole. It enabled him to register an eagle 3. On the sixteenth, a bye hole, he tallied his second eagle by dropping a 15-footer. His card for the round showed nine 3s, one 5, and the remainder 4s. He went out in 32 strokes, and used no more coming home.

Bucs Fail to Play; Equipment Seized

Amarillo, Tex., April 5 (A.P.).—Club equipment of the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates was seized tonight after Jerry Malin, sports editor of the Amarillo News and Globe, filed suit for damages because the clubs refused to play an exhibition game here this afternoon.

George Gibson, manager of the Pirates, declined to take his club from a local hotel in the face of a cold wind and the exhibition was canceled shortly before game time.

Malin, who sponsored the exhibition, filed suit for $1,300 damages, alleging "failure to fulfill contract without cause."

Trucks backed up to the baggage car of the special baseball train and unloaded the equipment. The teams are scheduled for an exhibition in Tulsa, Okla., tomorrow.

Dog Show Entries Held Open Until April 10

The closing date for entry blanks for the fourth annual dog show of the National Capital Kennel Club has been extended from April 7 until April 10, Joseph O'Hare, president of the National Capital Kennel Club, announced yesterday. Mr. O'Hare said that entry blanks already received show that more than 50 champion dogs will be among the 1,500 entries expected for the two-day show, April 21 and 22, to be held in the Washington Auditorium.

Montreal Club Here; Trains at Georgetown

Led by its peppery manager, Doc Gautreau, formerly of the Boston Braves, the Montreal Royals of the International League arrived in Washington yesterday morning, and pitched their temporary training camp at Georgetown University's baseball field.

The Royals will remain in town four days, and during their brief stay here will confine all of their practice and playing to the Hilltop diamond. Fresh from three weeks of training in Orlando, Fla., the Canadian tossers will oppose the Georgetown baseball team in exhibition games Friday and Saturday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Montreal will leave Sunday night for Philadelphia where the Phillies will be engaged in games on Monday and Tuesday. The Royals will pry the lid off the season at Newark Wednesday.

Lee House will be the headquarters for the International League club.

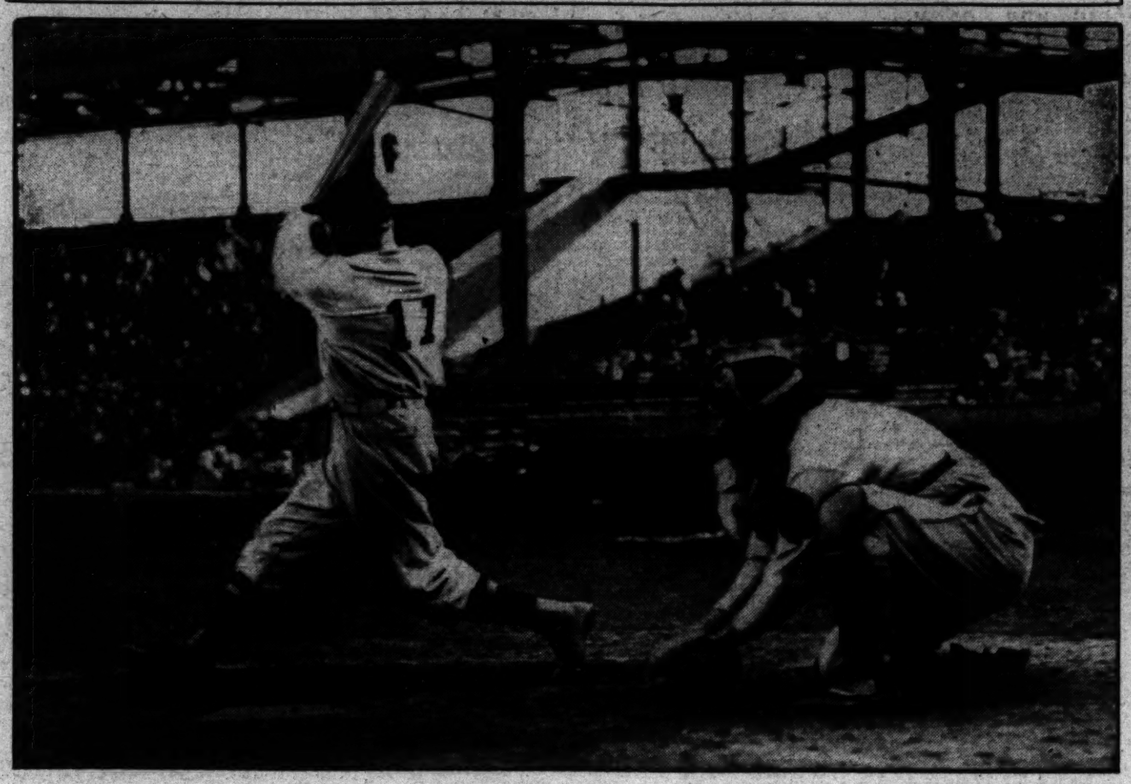
Goose's Bat and Catcher's Mitt Tell Story of Pitch



Ted Johnson, Post Staff Photographer.

The position of the catcher's mitt is the tell-tale feature of Goslin's swing in the sixth inning yesterday against the Braves. The Goose's pretty swing that has all the earmarks of a home-run clout is betrayed by the fact that Catcher Hogan was obliged to bend far down to the plate to receive the pitch that seems to have eluded Mr. Goslin's bat completely.

JONES FACES KAMPFER TONIGHT

Possibility of Match With Londos to Enliven Battle.

ALTHOUGH wrestling boasts of no very accurate past performance sheet, it is quite possible that tonight's exhibition at the Washington Auditorium in which Hans Kampfer and Paul Jones trade both growls and patented holds will be the first time the two have met. Umpire Cyclone Burns will introduce them to each other, thereby starting what might lead to a beautiful friendship.

There is not much chance that the boys will become fast friends immediately after being introduced, for when two 220-pound mammoths start plumping each other around the ring there is not time for an exchange of pleasantries, particularly when one of the men (Jones) boasts of a rather terrifying hook scissors and the other (Kampfer) is accomplished in all branches of applied misery.

Kampfer Seeks Londos Match.

Kampfer, according to the best brand of rumor, is being primed for a Londos bout. The big, colorful German, who has supplanted Milo Steinborn as the official strong man of the troupe, is close to the top of rassling. Jones, by the way, participated in the most delightful Londos bout ever staged here, more than two years ago.

A couple of toughs, Ernie Dusek and Everett Marshall, trade elbow jabs and gouging jobs in the semi-windup, listed as a 45-minute bout. Dick Raines, a Texan, makes his debut in the central 30-minute bout, meeting Frank Judson, whose local star is in descendency, but who continues to be one of the more popular figures in the game here. Milo Steinborn meets Tom Alley and Karl Davis does the same thing to Babe Caddock in the two remaining bouts.

As usual, women spectators will be admitted free of charge if they can produce accredited male ticket holders. First affair at 8:30 o'clock.

Wardman Park Tennis Officers Are Reelected

The Washington Park Tennis Association in a meeting at Wardmon Park Hotel last night reelected President Pat Deck and all officers who headed the organization during the past year. Herbert Shepard will continue to serve as vice president; M. D. Rathberger as secretary and William O. Shreve as treasurer.

The same six teams that competed last year in the Inter-Park League, namely Potomac Park, Monument, Henry Park, Montrose, Pierce's Mill and Rock Creek will again participate in this season's events, which will start in the latter part of April.

C. U. Gridmen Win From Maryland U.

Once again Dutch Bergman's Catholic University football team displayed real class in a practice scrimmage against the University of Maryland at College Park yesterday afternoon. While more attention was spent on the execution of plays than the number of points scored, the Cardinals crossed the Old Liners stripe six times to one for the Terps, to render mute testimony as to the stronger club.

K. C. and French Fives Win A. A. U. Titles in Thrillers

ALTHOUGH the unlimited championship of the District A. A. U. tournament will not be decided until the Sholls and Investigation fives clash tonight at Tech High, the 145-pound title was garnered last night by the Knights of Columbus five in one of the most stirring finishes in the history of Post tournaments. It was by a one-point margin, 25-24, that the Caseys, under the guidance of Charlie Reynolds, turned back the Olmsted Team, which carried the 1932 crown into tonight's battle.

Sharing the spotlight in the tournament, sponsored by The Post, the French A. C. five, deadlocked at 17-17 with ten minutes to go, battled to a 25-20 decision over Mount Rainier to take the 130-pound championship.

Depenbrock was the man of the hour for the K. of C. He made only one field goal, but it was his shot from near the center of the court in the final minute of action that turned an apparent defeat into a never-forgettable victory.

Caseys Outscored In First Half.

The Caseys were forced to give ground continually during the first half and trailed by a 20-to-12 margin at intermission. It was in the second half that the Caseys rose to new heights. Their defense tightened to hold the Grillmen to two field goals and a like number of fouls, while their passing game began to click and baskets became more frequent. Gradually they wore down their opponents and gained their reward through the medium of Depenbrock's timely shot.

Both the French and Mount Rainier teams battled hammer and tongs throughout the 40 minutes of play, as sentinals from each outfit did yoeman duty in breaking up numerous attempts for baskets by the opposition.

After 10 minutes of din-dong playing, in which short shots were at a premium and long shots were the order, due to stellar defensive work, Mount Rainier, benefiting by accuracy from the free-throw line, forged ahead, taking with it a 15-to-10 lead at half time.

Foul Throws Aid Mount Rainier.

From the standpoint of field goals, French A. C. more than doubled the total registered by the losers, scoring 11 to its opponent's 5. Mount Rainier, however, crashed through with 10 successful foul throws, B. Matheas, right forward, cashing in on 5 and winning high scoring honors with 7 points.

Raidy, Nichols and Colbert, with 6 markers each, shared in scoring honors for French.

Nichols, Hofberg and Warren worked nobly on the defense for French, their guarding being an outstanding factor in the team's triumphant drive to the championship.

Intercollegiate Court League Adds Bucknell

Lewisburg, Pa., April 5 (A.P.).—Bucknell University today joined the Eastern Intercollegiate Basket Ball Conference, making it a six-team league for 1933-34.

Other colleges in the conference are Pittsburgh, winner of this the first season's pennant; Carnegie, West Virginia, Georgetown and Temple.

Departmental League Managers in Meeting

Departmental Leaguers will make another attempt to get together tonight in the green room of the Government Printing Office, President Shomo having called a conference for 8 o'clock. The directing board will pass on umpires, arrange a definite schedule and accept the franchise fees from all teams. Managers are urged to be present.

Cuyler May Be Lost To Cubs Until July 4

Chicago, April 5 (A.P.).—Kiki Cuyler returned to Chicago today and learned from a bone specialist that he will be out of the Cub line-up until around July 4.

"It's a rather bad break," said Dr. Edwin W. Ryerson as he examined the fractured right ankle. "The bone is broken completely, a piece 3 inches long being separated at either end. If it heals up as well as it should, it will probably be two months before it will be strong enough for baseball practice. Additional time is needed before you can start to play. So it will be around July 4 before you can hope to play again."

MACKS AGAIN WIN FROM PHILS

Bishop's Homer, With Three On, Features 9-3 Win.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics hopped into a 2-to-1 lead in the city series today by defeating the Phillies, 9 to 3.

Tony Freitas pitched six innings for the Athletics and did not allow a hit. One Phil got on base on a pass. Rube Walberg, who succeeded him, allowed one single in the seventh and two hits in the ninth, when the Phillies scored three runs.

The Athletics won the game in the fourth when they scored five runs. Max Bishop settled the issue with a home run with the bases loaded. The Athletics made seven hits in the inning. Frank Higgins hammered out a home run in the seventh.

In addition to their 15 hits, the Athletics fielded in championship form.

Sholl's to Battle Sleuths Tonight For A. A. U. Title

With the District A. A. U. championship at stake, the battle that Capital fans have been awaiting between Sholl's Cafe and Bureau of Investigation will materialize tonight at the Tech High Gymnasium in the competition being sponsored by The Post. These rivals, the survivors of two brackets studded with outstanding teams, will clash at 9 o'clock, preceded by a battle of the Als A. C. and Rockville sextets for the senior girls' title.

The District A. A. U. medals will be presented to members of all championship teams between the two games, and all players of the title-winning teams are invited to attend the program.

The Sholl's-Investigation battle, which climaxes a month of action in the tournament, promises to be a thriller, with the cafe five a slight favorite. It boasts such stars as Jones, Hook, Bobby Lucas and others. Investigation has the Singman brothers, Shapiro, Tommy Connors and others who have made their mark in first-flight basket ball.

Weaver Goes Route Today For Nats

Fans Here to Honor Joe Judge in Brooklyn Livery.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH not scheduled as such, it will be "Joe Judge Day" at Griffith Stadium this afternoon when the populab former Nat first-sacker makes his first return appearance in the uniform of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Joe has a host of admirers here and it is dollars to doughnuts that a goodly gathering will be on hand today to welcome him home. Reports from the Brooklyn camp are to the effect that Judge is set as their first-sacker and he is expected to show some of the reasons why when he faces his old mates this afternoon.

But, for the fans who are not going to the park just to see Judge play, Manager Joe Cronin has a surprise, as he will turn over his pitching assignment to "Prof" Monte Weaver with instructions that he is to travel the entire route—the first time this spring any of the Nat hurlers have been asked to toil for more than six innings. Hollis Thurston, who used to pitch for the Nats, and Fred Heimach, who once sported livery of both the A's and Yankees, are expected to do the flinging for the Dodgers.

Sad news for the golfing members of the Nat clan—it is banned from now on.

Jack Bentley, former Nat and Giant, has been released as manager of the Elmira Club and is now living at the old family homestead at Sandy Spring. Jack is seeking a baseball connection and Owner Clark Griffith has promised to give him a lift.

Bill Moore, All-High first baseman at Eastern two seasons ago, is seeking a job with the Nats. He worked out with them yesterday and Cronin told him to show up again today.

Reports are to the effect that good old Nick Altrock is not doing so well and that illness is doing something that scraps, petty jealousies and other things could not—breaking up the famous Altrock-Schacht comedy team. "Uncle Nick" recently suffered a mild heart attack and, via the grape-vine route, it is learned that his physician has ordered him to take things mighty easy for a while, at least. This means that he will have to pass up his first base practice, coaching during games, and many of the comedy stunts, such as the prize fight burlesque, which call for strenuous work on his part.

Illustrating the team spirit which Manager Cronin so frequently refers to, Sam Rice spent considerable time in right field before yesterday's game with the Braves, teaching Goose Goslin how to figure out carom shots as drives in that sector bound off of the fence.

The Goose, by the way, has decided to have a new deal for himself here. "Just for luck," as he explains it, he has notified Bobo Baxter, housekeeper of the locker room, that he does not want to have his former locker assigned to him. So now, he does all his primping in the one given up by former Pilot Walter Johnson.

It remained for "Rabbit" Maranville, the oldest regular infielder in baseball, to get the first hit in yesterday's game. He came through with a liner-double with one dead in the third.

This guy, Gyselman, was quite busy with the Braves in the fourth yesterday. While at bat, he almost put a couple of newspaper photographers out of misery with a foul liner down first-base way. Then, in the home half, he was charged with an error when he forgot to touch second on Goslin's fielder's choice to Maranville. He ended the session by tearing out to left to make a great over-the-shoulder grab of Sewell's near-Texas leaguer.

"Pinky" Hargrave, former Nat, pinch-hit for Pitcher Betts in the ninth, but all he created was an atmospheric upheavel when he went down lustily swinging at three successive half-speed balls doled out by Flinger McAfee.

Bill Urbanski, star infielder of the Boston Braves, yesterday signed for the coming season.

The contract is said to call for $6,000 in salary, an increase of $1,000 over what Urbanski received last season.

Schulte Stars At Bat and In Field

Drives in 3 Runs to Lead Attack Against Seibold, Betts.

Whitehill and McAfee Check Braves in Homecoming.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

IN this capitalistic old vale, it is the customary thing for new employes to work their ears off on their first day at the foundry to impress the jaded bosses. Baseball being one of our more eminent and prosperous industries it is only fitting that Griffith Stadium should have produced yesterday an example of "First Day on the Job" ferocity.

Earl Whitehill and Fred Schulte were the new employes. They joined in venting their righteous wrath on the Boston Braves and the scoreboard keeper dusted off a couple of new numerals and proclaimed Washington winner in its first game of the home exhibition series, 7 to 3.

Schulte Justifies His Praises.

Whitehill, who used to cast a malevolent spell over Washington when he was a member of the Detroit Tigers, gave an exhibition of the flexibility of that spell by hokus-pokusing the Braves for six innings before turning over a 5-2 lead to Bill McAfee. Fred Schulte, the centerfielder, whose St. Louis employers didn't understand him, saved the reputations of the enthusiastic Biloxi reporters by blasting in three runs, pumping a triple to left and hauling down four of the potent-looking liners that shot

TWO WHITNEY STABLES SEEK PURSES AT HAVRE DE GRACE

32 Greentree Horses at Track

Mrs. Payne Whitney Sends Stars for Coming Meet.

C. V. Whitney Also to Make Bid for Graw Purses.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 5. The Whitney family, long pillars of American racing, will make a serious bid for purses during the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association's 13-day meeting which opens Maryland's spring season on April 15.

Several days ago it was announced that C. V. Whitney would send his best here, and now word comes from Red Bank, N. J., that Trainer Bill Brennan would arrive to personally handle the 32 horses that will carry the cherry and black silks of Mrs. Payne Whitney, who races under the nom de course of the Greentree Stable.

Twenty-three 2-year-olds In Stable.

Trainer Brennan will have 23 2-year-olds, 6 3-year-olds, 2 4-year-olds and 1 5-year-old in his care. The best-known member of the stable is St. Brideaux, one that went sour the past winter in Florida, but who is expected to show his true form as a result of his short let-up.

Curacao, old bay gelded son of Dominant and Maracaibo, and Semaphore are the stable's 4-year-olds. Curacao was going great guns in preparation for the $50,000 Cuban Handicap when he went amiss, but has come around nicely of late and should be a powerful factor in the stakes to be run here.

In one of his mile winning efforts at Miami, Curacao raced 8 furlongs in 1:37 3-5 with 113 pounds up to beat Kincsen, Chief John, Mr. Sponge and My Dandy. In other mile winning effort he beat Gold Step, My Dandy, Dyak, Cathop, Kincsen, Jubilate, Con Amore, Siskin and Reveille Boy; thereby proving that he not only possesses speed, but can negotiate a route successfully.

Jungle King, second in the Florida Derby early this month, and the 2-year-olds Chimney Top, Tom Pooley, Miss Mouse, Cherry Tart and Chinese Custom, are other Greentree representatives that will come on from Miami to join the thoroughbreds that Trainer Brennan is bringing down from Red Bank.

Coucci to do Riding for Greentree.

Silvio Coucci, one of America's best knights of the pigskin, will be the stable's artist. The little Italian rode with much success during the recent Miami session and Trainer Brennan looks for him to be up among the leaders during the 13 days racing at this coure.

Applications for stalls are pouring in on Track Superintendent James Ross and it looks as if next month's session will attract not only the largest, but the best colony of thoroughbreds ever to race here.

Washington Gun Club Faces Baltimore Team

Saturday afternoon will see the Washington and Oriole gun clubs competing in the sixth of the seven matches scheduled during the fall of 1932 and spring of 1933. The last match was at Baltimore, and was taken decisively by the Orioles. Naturally, the home club is out for revenge this time. The regular program calls for 100 single targets and 25 pairs of doubles. Cash prizes will be awarded on the 100 singles, in classes based on averages, and on the doubles by the Lewis class system.

The match is open to the public with no admission fee charged. Saturday's match will start at 1 p. m.

The ten high men in the singles and five high in the doubles on each side constitute the teams, the winning team in the singles receiving individual trophies.

Second Van-Irving Natural Simmers in Financial Maze

Southwest Boy Seeks Big Time Money for What Promoters Admit Is Season's Best Drawing Card; Showdown Today.

A TEN-DAY undercurrent of negotiating comparable to the maze of hair-splitting dickering usually associated only with heavyweight championship bouts last night came to the surface in connection with the proposed Irving-Van fight.

Acknowledging the bout as a surefire "natural," the management at Portner's Arena is very anxious to book the match, but their ideas of financial remuneration have not yet coincided with the thoughts of Young Van and his handlers. Van feels that the same management that can and does give out 20 per cent and thereabouts to such imported boxers as Weiss, Gelb and others who have had little to offer but reputations, should be willing to give him a percentage that will net him somewhere near as much as they get, if the fight draws as expected.

The Day Nursery promoters feel that inasmuch as Van is fighting only his second main bout, does not boast a national ranking, he should be satisfied with much less than the cut usually given more widely advertised boxers. Van counters by calling attention to the fact that under the most adverse conditions, in the middle of the bank holiday and without their slashing draw to attract the customers, the first Van-Irving melee grossed 30 per cent more than the Huttick-Kennedy bout.

Van and his handlers believe that the slashing draw which was hammered out, the very desirable publicity that followed that draw and the fact that Washington fight fans are notably favorable to "club fights" will make the bout one of the best drawing cards of the season, and they are determined to get what they term a fair share of the spoils.

Pending further efforts to arrive at some satisfactory terms, the Day Nursery is holding a 10-round return bout between Billy Landers and Le Roy Dougan in abeyance.

Tigers Hit Hard to Beat Crackers.

Atlanta, Ga., April 5 (A.P.).—Vic Sorrell, who gave an exceedingly wobbly performance in his first pitching of the season against the New York Giants, redeemed himself today with a fine exhibition of control while the Detroit Tigers were defeating the Atlanta Crackers, 7 to 4.

Tiger batsmen kept up their heavy hitting, led by Ray Hayworth's homer and Frank Reiber's triple. Altogether they gathered 14 hits.

Red Sox Rally to Beat Newark.

Newark, N. J., April 5 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox today put on an impressive closing drive to edge out the Newark Bears, International League champions, by a 7-to-6 score in a free-hitting game.

The Sox were trailing, 4 to 1, in the eighth, when they put over four tallies on five consecutive singles and a pair of passes. In the ninth, Rabbit Warstler doubled and was squeezed over the plate with the winning run by the sacrifice bunting of Manager Marty McManus and Johnny Watwood.

Mermaids Vie For A. A. U. Honors

Lawrence, Bates and Taube Choices for All-Around Title.

THE enviable title of "best all-around swimmer" among the District's fair natators will be decided at the Shoreham Hotel Pool tomorrow and Saturday night with three local girls heavily backed in premeet discussions.

Onalena Lawrence, Lois Bates and Lenore Taube are the young ladies in question. The title encompasses the following events: 50-yard dashes in the breast-stroke, backstroke and free-style swimming.

While ordinarily the customary run of District championships are generally fought out between Misses Lawrence and Bates, the vast improvement of Lenore Taube in the backstroke gives her an equal chance of taking the prize this week-end.

Onalene Lawrence Boasts Fine Record.

Onalene Lawrence has the most impressive record of the trio. The Bethesda girl won a somewhat similar title last year in the Wardman Park Pool's penathalon event. This winter, at the Shoreham, she defeated Grace Wamer, of Baltimore, five times South Atlantic A. A. U. champion, in another mixed event.

As they stack up now Onalene should take a comfortable lead in the breast-stroke, but Lenore should more than make that up in the back-stroke and Lois should come along strongly in the third end of the business, the free style.

National Training Nine Beats Emerson, 12-7

National Training School's Baseball Team took Emerson Institute in tow yesterday afternoon, 12 to 7, hitting the offerings of Carr for 11 safeties.

Minor, with five hits, and Hardy, with four, both of Emerson, were the day's hitting stars, but their good work was not enough to stem the onrush of the National Training nine.

WOLTZ NINE SEEKS GAMES.

The Woltz Photographers' nine greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Russell Grogan, of Catholic University, and Quigley, late of Gonzaga, are seeking games with local clubs. Indian Spring Host to Miss Orcutt

Golf Star May Play Exhibition Apr. 16; Team Results.

By DAVE HERMAN.

MAUREEN ORCUTT, recently crowned North and South champion, and holder of every golf title of importance with the exception of the national women's, yesterday accepted an invitation to play in an exhibition match over the Indian Spring golf course.

Arrangements for the popular Englewood, N. J. star's appearance at Indian Spring were completed by Tom Belshe, golf chairman, who wired Miss Orcutt at Pinehurst, N. C., yesterday and quickly received an answer. Miss Orcutt and Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes are together at the Carolina resort center, and are expected in town in a few days for exhibition at both Columbia and Kenwood.

Match May Be Listed April 16.

According to Belshe the match in which Miss Orcutt will be the outstanding participant, may take place on April 16, Eastern Sunday. Mrs. Betty Palmer Meckley, Indian Spring women's champion, and prominent Middle Atlantic player, and George Diffenbaugh, home pro, will probably team against Miss Orcutt and Mrs. Haynes.

The appearance of Miss Orcutt promises to be an event of interest on Indian Spring's heavy golf calendar.

Army and Navy's second team dominated the spotlight yesterday at Woodmont in the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association interclub matches, making a clean sweep of its points in defeating Beaver Dam, 15 to 0.

Washington won from Woodmont, 13½ to 1½; Chevy Chase disposed of Manor, 13 to 2, and Kenwood turned back Columbia, 11½ to 3½.

The match between Congressional and Indian Spring second teams was postponed.

Next Monday at Chevy Chase the second teams of the ten District clubs will clash in the second round of the annual competition. The first teams clash at Beaver Dam on April 17.

Yesterday's results follow:

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

CELEBRATING the return of legal beer, WJSV listeners will be taken to Chicago at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. For 30 minutes there will be descriptions of the preparations under way for the dispensing of the foamy amber fluid which becomes legal in the Middle West at 1:01 a. m.

St. Louis will be the scene of broadcast operations at the moment 3.2 beer becomes legal. Columbia microphones and announcers will be posted on the roof of the Annheuser-Busch Brewery. Three airplanes, each carrying a case of beer, one for President Roosevelt, another for Vice President Garner and the third for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, will take off. This event will be described by August Busch.

The program then shifts to Milwaukee, where the pick-up will be made at 1:15 a. m. from the Schlitz plant. Listeners will hear the clamor that goes with the loading of the first trucks and their departure as they leave to fill the initial orders. Erwin and Robert Uihlein, owners of the brewery, will give short talks. A musical background for the events will be provided by a German band.

The occasion also will be joyful for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, outstanding leader in the prohibition repeal movement, who will be heard earlier this evening. Dr. Butler will speak over WRC at 7:15 p. m. It is expected that he will analyze the present situation as regards liquor control, prohibition and repeal.

The Castilian touch that enters into practically all Madrillon broadcasts will be supplied by "Gallito," a Spanish number dedicated, as Director Arsenio Ralon puts it, to "the bes' dam' toreador in all Spain." (WMAL, 1 p. m.) The new Cuban-inspired number, "Siboney," also will be played.

Antonio Rossito is to sing "Tango of Roses."

"POETRY and Music" will go on the air again tonight from WMAL at 9:30 o'clock. In the reorganized group are Mary Apple, contralto, soloist of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, and Kroom Bagranoff, tenor at Epiphany Church. Adolf Torovsky will be at the piano and Eileen Fowler will read the poems.

Tonight's program will be as follows:

"The Spirit Flower," by Mr. Bagranoff; Cyril Scott's "Lento," played by Mr. Torovsky; Longfellow's "Hymn to the Night," read by Eileen Fowler; "O Lovely Night," sung by Mary Apple, and Shelley's poem, "Music," by Eileen Fowler.

Jeannie Lang, singer, says it isn't true, but Tom Howard, the droll comedian, tells this story:

"Jeannie answered the door bell the other afternoon and a book agent doffed his hat and said, 'Are you interested in some books?'

"Jeannie said, 'No.'

"'Do you know Dickens' works?' the agent asked.

"'I didn't even know he lost his job,' Jeannie told him."

Howard Petrie, the tallest announcer at the N. B. C. in New York, and Miss Alice Wood, hostess, will be married in the Little Church Around the Corner on Friday, April 21. * * * It was not until after Allen Baruck had been given the role of Joe Corntassel in the Orphan Annie program that he knew his first "mike fright." The first time before a microphone he did not know he was being auditioned and proceeded to enjoy himself by reading the script given him. * * * Elsie Hitz, radio's dramatic actress, was taken to Queensboro Hospital, Jamaica, Long Island, last night, seriously ill with scarlet fever.

WASHINGTON will have an opportunity to hear how much the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra has progressed under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, who went out there about a year ago. (WMAL, 11:30 p. m.) In addition to his work in Minneapolis, Ormandy has been much in demand as a guest conductor.

Besides six concerts which he conducted of the Philadelphia Orchestra, he was also called to conduct the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra when Goossens became ill.

"Child to Talk on Investments." That head on a press release fooled us, too. Maybe a child could talk better about investments than some of us who have made investments during the past few years, but the child in this case, we found on more careful reading, was Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy. (WMAL, 3:15 p. m.)

Mr. Child was recently selected to head the Security Holders' Committee which was formed by leading investment firm executives to protect the rights of owners of $3,000,000,000 of guaranteed mortgages and participation certificates. The committee proposes to take steps to prevent dissipation of such investments.

Closed in under the hood of a Department of Commerce plane, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made two "blind" landings Monday at Newark Airport in a test of the new "bent" radio beam installed by the department to help pilots in fog or storm.

Before taking the controls Col. Lindbergh had a flight in the department's cabin Bellanca, which has a full set of blind-flying instruments. Then he boarded the smaller Fledgling plane, using the hooded cockpit. His landings with the unfamiliar instruments and without sight of the ground were assisted by James L. Kinney, test pilot of the department.

Just so there'll be no doubt about it, Ruth Etting will sing, "I Got a Right to Sing the Blues" during her 9 p. m. broadcast over WJSV.

HERE is that old fellow again with the long gray whiskers—what's his name? Oh, yes—Joe Cook, the Hoosier gymcracker. Joe is on tonight with Fay Bainter, the actress, and Rudy Vallee in the Sunshine Hour (WRC, 8 o'clock).

Because the Navy Band is off the air the Army Band yesterday morning played "Going Home" in memory of those lost on the "Akron."

All the "rain" songs—"Singin' in the Rain," "Garden in the Rain" and the other moist one will comprise a special "rain" presentation by Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, who for this occasion describe themselves as the reigning jesters (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.). * * * Ted Lewis, high hat and all, follows over the same station at 11:45 p. m. * * * The Gregorian Club, consisting of sixteen vocalists from St. Patrick's Cathedral, in New York, will be heard in a musical version of the Passion Story (WMAL, 3:30 p. m.). It was arranged by Pietro Yon. * * * "The Back Yard Garden" will be the topic of Mrs. Irma B. Levy, member of the New York City School Board (WRC, 3:30 p. m.).

MORTON DOWNEY leaves for several vaudeville engagements in California tomorrow, direct from here, where he has been playing at the Earle. He will join his wife, the former Barbara Bennett, in Los Angeles.

The tenor will remain in California for three weeks, at the end of which time he will play several stage dates in Chicago and a few other cities en route East. On May 31 Downey will embark for Europe, where he will appear at the Cafe de Paris in London. It was in the English capital that he first won acclaim before returning to this country for subsequent radio fame.

Mort will say farewell to the Capital over WJSV tonight at 10:45 o'clock.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and Latin-American diplomats will be heard over the networks next Wednesday when a special Pan-American Day celebration is broadcast.

Three broadcasts, in the form of Easter parties for juvenile listeners, "Chick Chick Fun," will be heard over WJSV at 5:15 tonight; also next Tuesday and Thursday. The three programs will be produced under the subtitles, "Chick Chick Operetta," "Egg-Time Fun" and "Golden Moments in Melody."

The talent chosen for the series will bring together a juvenile cast, ranging in ages from 6 to 12 years, and headed by Florence Halop, the 8-year-old mistress of ceremonies.

TRUSTEES SALE

MONDAY, APRIL 10, 1933—

ADAM A. WESCHLER & SON, Auctioneers

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE SEMI-DETACHED BRICK DWELLING, NO. 2014A 20TH STREET S.E., WITH GARAGE-MENT-BLOCK GARAGE IN REAR.

By virtue of a deed of trust recorded in Liber No. 6214, folio 91, et seq., one of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale by public auction, in front of the premises, on MONDAY, the TENTH DAY OF APRIL, 1933, at THREE O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described property in the District of Columbia, to-wit: Lot 19 in Block 19 in the subdivision made by the National Safe Deposit Saving & Trust Co., of the District of Columbia, trustee, known as "Randle Highlands," as per plat recorded in the Office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in Liber County 18 at folio 36; now known for purposes of assessment and taxation as lot 16 in square 5577. Subject to building restrictions and covenants of record.

TERMS OF SALE: Property will be sold subject to a prior deed of trust for $5,000.00 at 6 per cent due July 6, 1933; balance cash. A deposit of $200.00 required of purchaser at sale. Examination of title, conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps and notarial fees at cost of purchaser. Terms to be complied with within fifty days from day of sale, otherwise trustees reserve the right to resell the property at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., or deposit may be forfeited, or without forfeiting deposit trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable rights against defaulting purchaser.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE NEW DEAL IN SECURITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

(As they might announce offerings of new flotations under the new bill.)

$5,000,000 6% BONDS REPUBLIC OF BOKA-BOKA.

We will issue $5,000,000 in bonds of the Republic of Boka-Boka due October 15, 1999, bearing interest at 6 per cent.

The Republic of Boka-Boka is, or was at the time of this writing, located in South America. It is bounded on the north by Gopalia, on the south by Letevia, on the west by Joe's Wayside Tourist Camp and on the east by an unidentified army.

Its president is Ramos de la Ruey, a six-goal polo man in his own right and one of the best dinner companions in all South America. The secretary of the treasury is his wife, Dolores, a distinguished beauty. The remaining cabinet offices are held by their son Pastores ("Pookie") de la Ruey, who is the very life of night-club life on two continents. (You asked for the facts, mister, and you're getting 'em.)

PURPOSE.

The bonds are issued for these three major purposes:

1. To build a railroad to the top of Mount Lopa. The president built a public drinking fountain on the top of the mountain and the public is refusing to make the trip on foot.

2. The Secretary of the Treasury is short.

3. The President's son wants to pay off some annoying debts and buy a yacht.

PRIOR OBLIGATIONS.

$25,000,000,000 Expansion 8s due April 1, 1927.....(Default)
$30,000,000 General Whoopee 5s of 1912.....(Default)
$10,000,000 Collapsible 4s of 1930 (Default)
$4.50 personal note of the President, (Only 75 cents outstanding).

NORTH AMERICAN OYSTER SHELL REFILLING CORP., CATAWBA, DEL.

New Issue. July 1.

Four Per Cent Preferred Stock. (Nonvoting.)

The undersigned has purchased for the underwriting syndicate a new issue of 6 per cent preferred stock of the North American Oyster Shell Refilling Corporation. This corporation is in the business of refilling and refinishing oyster shells and is positively not a motion picture.

The company has been in business more than a year and is well managed, except for a few vice presidents who got in by mistake. The president has a good reputation for devotion to business. He does not play golf and has no intention of taking it up. The other officers are normal intellectually.

PURPOSE.

The proceeds of the new stock will be used to market a device for getting shrimp out of cans with a zipper instead of with a can opener.

Don't say we didn't warn you.

EXPOSE.

I told her that I lived in style,
And hobnobbed with society.
I reveled in her pretty smile,
And felt that she believed in me.

I told her that I had a grand
White mansion matched as yet by none.
She looked me up in Bradstreet's and
I realized that I was Dun.

WRONG AGAIN.

One of the largest drug store chains in the country went into receivership the other day. This will come as a great surprise to people who had always imagined there was good money in books, liverwurst sandwiches and jig-saw puzzles.

Add similes: As delighted as an individual old-fashioned druggest at the news a drug store chain is in trouble.

The more one reads the statements of Dr. Paul Goebbels, Germany's National Minister of Propaganda, the more one realizes that he would make an ideal press agent for somebody who was determined to shake off all friends.

Timothy W. McCarthy Catholic U. Valedictorian

Timothy W. McCarthy, of Rockville, Conn., last night was designated valedictorian of the class of 1933 at Catholic University. Formal announcement was made by Frank J. Brennan, senior class president, after a close election, in which seven other candidates were successfully eliminated by the victor.

Mrs. Roosevelt To Hear Concert

National Symphony Orchestra Gives Final Performance Today.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will attend the final concert of the National Symphony Orchestra, 4:45 p. m. today at Constitution Hall.

The concert will be the last of the 28 concerts presented and a schedule similar to this season's engagements of the symphony is planned for 1934. A city-wide campaign to raise funds for the continuance of the orchestral group is being carried on.

The program today will be "Die Freischutz" (Weber), "D Minor Symphony" (Cesar Franck), "Le Rouet d'Omphale" (Saint-Saens), overture from "Tannhauser" (Wagner.)

WILLIAM E. LEAHY BEING BOOSTED FOR SOLICITOR GENERAL

Capital Lawyer Reported to Have Indorsement of Senator Walsh.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Appointment of William E. Leahy, nationally known Washington lawyer, as Solicitor General of the United States, has been urged on Attorney General Homer Cummings by several leaders prominent in the Democratic party.

Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge, of Massachusetts; Representative John McCormack, and other members of the Massachusetts delegation in the House have advanced Mr. Leahy for the post, as has also John E. Laskey, former District attorney, under whom Mr. Leahy served as chief assistant several years ago.

Aid to Palmer.

Mr. Leahy came to Washington from Massachusetts a quarter of a century ago and won his spurs in legal practice in the District. He was named special Assistant United States Attorney General by A. Mitchell Palmer and brought about the conviction of Nicky Arnstein and others. He was counsel in the Fall-Doheny, Charles Morse, the gigantic lumber war fraud, and other cases which attracted national attention. Although he has a lucrative practice, Mr. Leahy would swap it immediately for the honor which goes with the solicitor general's job in the eyes of the legal profession. Several other candidates for the post also are under consideration.

A. M. Fisher Mentioned.

Another dark horse candidate for the post of District Commissioner has had his name presented to the White House for consideration by the President. He is Atwood M. Fisher, who formerly was treasurer of the Potomac Electric Power Co. until he retired a while ago to repair his health. Mr. Fisher is said to have received the approval of Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, Senator Burton Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, and others. Mr. Fisher has been president of the Chevy Chase Citizens Association, in which he has taken special interest in schools, police and fire departments.

When a decision will be made by the President is not known. It was said authoritatively at the White House yesterday that the President had not considered the problem of District appointments, and did not know just when he would get around to it.

"Buy-Dry" Campaign Faces Local Merchants

A "Buy Dry" campaign will be inaugurated by members of the Citizens' Association for Law and Order, when beer becomes legal in Washington, it was decided at a meeting of the board of directors of the organization yesterday in the Calvary Baptist Church.

The new move will take the form of a boycott of merchants handling wet wares. The group adopted a resolution asking all prohibition organizations to follow their example.

Objections to Sign Regulations Heard

More Orderliness Seen by District in Revised Outdoor Code.

Some objections to several of the half dozen proposed changes in the District sign regulations were voiced yesterday at a public hearing before the District Commissioners. The revised regulations are intended to make for more orderliness in outdoor advertising.

David Hornstein, representing the Sign and Pictorial Painters Local Union, objected particularly to the amendment designed to make more rigid the restrictions on signs that project beyond the building lines and those erected on roofs.

Robert Bresford, of the Architects Advisory Council, and Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, came to the defense of the proposed changes. The whole matter was taken under advisement.

Takoma Park Resident Charged With Assault

A warrant for the arrest of Harry E. Dodge, 252 Maple avenue, Takoma Park, Md., on charges of assault and battery, was issued last night by Justice of the Peace David Mears, of Silver Spring, on the complaint of Alfred H. Annandale, inspector for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

The alleged assault is said to have occurred yesterday afternoon when Annandale went to Dodge's home to investigate a reported illegal sewer connection.

CADETS RECEIVE COMMISSIONS

44 M'KINLEY CADETS ARE COMMISSIONED

Dr. Reichelderfer Recalls His Experiences 40 Years Ago in Presentations.

Forty-four cadet officers of McKinley High School yesterday were presented their commissions by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners—who 40 years ago was commissioned in a like manner as colonel of Washington's small but growing cadet brigade.

The presentations were made at the McKinley Stadium before a large assemblage of the institution's students and with the cadet forces of the high school drawn up in military order.

Just before beginning to hand out the commissions, Dr. Reichelderfer made a brief address to the assembled officers, complimenting their achievements and lauding the purposes of high school military training.

Dr. Reichelderfer told the young officers of his own experience of 40 years ago and declared that "40 years from now you will look back as I do and be glad that you were a cadet."

Yesterday's exercises were part of a new plan for awarding high school cadet commissions. Previously the officers of the entire corps have been commissioned at one ceremony. This year Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent of schools, ordered that each school's officers be commissioned separately.

Lieut. Wallace M. Craigie has announced dates for the remaining cadet competitions, which begin next Monday in Central High School Stadium at 2:30 p. m. with the battalion competitive drill and band competition.

The regional competitive drill, it was announced, will be held at Central Stadium April 24. All five high schools will participate.

The big event of the year—the company competitive drill—will be held June 5 and 6, with the winners being announced at the conclusion of the second day's drilling and a grand brigade review.

Entz Fails to Appear Before School Board

H. H. Entz, who has failed to get his two children back to the Thomson School because of the charge of the Board of Education that they have not been properly vaccinated, asked for a hearing before the board yesterday afternoon but failed to appear.

Guards are still stationed at the Thomson School to keep the children from entering. A mandamus will be heard before Justice Cox, in District Supreme Court, April 10. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, against whom the suit has been brought, observed yesterday that the board should have been named defendant.

POISON DOSE FATAL TO ARTHUR BROWNE

Financial Worries Believed to Blame for Death of Realty Man.

Arthur Browne, 43, an associate in Randall H. Hagner & Co., Inc., realtors, committed suicide yesterday by swallowing poison. He was found unconscious in the bathroom of his home, 2204 Wyoming avenue, by his wife and removed to Emergency Hospital, where he died shortly before noon.

When his death was first reported it was understood that acute indigestion was the cause, but later it became known that he had taken the poison. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide. Financial worries are believed to have prompted his act.

Mr. Browne was prominent in Washington real estate circles and had been associated in the Hagner firm for many years with his brother, Alexander Britten Browne. He was at work as usual Tuesday.

His wife, Mrs. Jane W. Browne; a daughter, Jane, 6; a son, Arthur, jr., 10; his brother and another brother, Aldis Browne, of Chicago, survive him.

He was a member of the Chevy Chase and Cosmopolitan Clubs, the Washington Board of Trade and the Washington Real Estate Board.

A lifelong resident of the District, Mr. Browne was the son of the late Aldis P. Browne.

G. U. Portuguese Club To Honor Chile Charge

A testimonial to Benjamin Cohen, Charge d'Affaires of the Chilean Embassy and a graduate student of the Georgetown University, will be given tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. at 1106 Connecticut avenue by the Portuguese Club of the University.

There will be a musical program. Dr. J. de S. Coutinho, professor of Portuguese at Georgetown, is arranging the testimonial.

Police Hold Pair In Woman's Death

Brick Found in Cumberland Probe With Hair Still Sticking to It.

Further police investigation into the mysterious death Sunday of Mrs. Eva Cumberland, 60, of 724 Ninth street southeast, yesterday led to the release of all but two men suspects. Mrs. Cumberland died at Gallinger Hospital about twelve hours after she was found Sunday morning in an alley near her home. Death resulted from a fracture of the skull.

Detective Sergt. H. K. Wilson, chief of the homicide squad, said last night that he is certain that the woman was either "pushed, shoved, or fell" on a brick pile where she was found. A brick, with a quantity of hair stuck to it, is in police hands.

Edward Taylor, 32, of 913 Potomac avenue southeast, and Wilbur Allen, 34, of Camp Springs, Md., are being held.

Citizens Indorse D. C. Surplus Use

Friendship Group Against Closing Tenleytown Library Branch.

As a means of reducing District taxes, the Friendship Citizens Association last night proposed that the surplus District funds in the Treasury be used during the next fiscal year. The proposal is to be embodied in a letter to President Roosevelt.

The association asked for the removal of the special traffic light at Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues, contending that it merely increased traffic congestion at that intersection.

It also vigorously opposed the closing of the Tenleytown Branch of the Public Library, which it is reported may become necessary, owing to the proposed reduction in the library appropriation.

Trade Association Lunches Today.

The Washington Trade Association executives will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. today at the Carlton Hotel. The subject will be "Business Credit Adjustments."

WOMEN WETS TOLD OF BIG FIGHT AHEAD FOR REPEAL VICTORY

McDuffie and Wadsworth Join Mrs. Sabin in Rallying Her Cohorts.

Spurred on earlier by their dynamic, golden-haired leader, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, women wets last night were lauded and counseled by two outstanding legislators—one of each political faith—at the annual banquet of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Representatives John McDuffie, Alabama, and James W. Wadsworth, New York, Democrat and Republican, respectively, were the lawmakers who addressed the feminine antiprohibitionists at the dinner which followed the opening of two days of sessions of the organization.

Declaring that the "first big decisive battle for repeal" had been won, Mrs. Sabin rallied the women antiprohibitionists on victory in the fight for "ratification and regulation."

"Knitting" After Victory.

Then, said the energetic antidry, "we may disband and go back to our knitting." Such disbanding, she averred, would "free for intelligent political action the largest body of instructed, knowledgable women ever let loose in a democracy."

"The American people are ready to correct the evils of the past," said Representative McDuffie, "and guard against the evils of the future. These days of distress are challenging the best thought of the Nation and men and women everywhere are taking more interest in their Government."

He declared that the American people "are determined to rid the country of conditions growing out of sumptuary laws which have encouraged graft and corruption in high place, giving both financial and political power to a criminal class, enlarged the boundaries of the underworld, added strength to the stranglehold of organized crime and made of good citizens hyprocrits and criminals. * * *"

Pointing out that there will be movements to delay consideration by State conventions of repeal, Representative McDuffie said:

"The plan of submission is unique and, in many respects, a far-reaching experiment. Irrespective of our views for or against the national prohibition amendment, it appears incumbent on all of us to afford this system of ratification by conventions the most thorough and eminently fair trial."

Highly commending the organization's previous efforts against prohibition, Representative Wadsworth urged them on to even greater efforts in the impending struggle at the State conventions and prior to these gatherings.

More Than Drink Question.

Relative to the repeal question submitted to State constitutional conventions, Representative Wadsworth said:

"And now the fight is back in the States again. We must carry 36 of them. We must not be diverted by beer. This is not a question merely of beverages, beers, wines and spirits. It is a question of sound constitutional government, and political decency which goes with it."

Concentration of effort in "doubtful" States was emphasized by Mr. Wadsworth. In this field he declared the women's organization would be of great importance. He concluded:

"If you, and those who, like you, are organized for this effort, perform as well in the immediate future as you have in the past, I have no doubt that repeal will prevail, and the greatest racket in history brought to a close."

At the day session another outstanding speaker was Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and a veteran antagonist of prohibition.

Sees Rebuke to G. O. P.

Miss Butler sounded a warning that "in their interest in the return of beer, the American people may forget the far more important problem of repeal."

A delegate to the last Republican national convention, Miss Butler declared that the party had gone down to "crushing and merited defeat at the hands of an electorate who would no longer tolerate evasion" of the repeal problem.

Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the conference committee and prominent socially in New York, was toastmistress at the banquet last night, which was held at the Mayflower Hotel, where the conference is being held.

The sessions of the conference will continue today. State liquor control proposals are expected to form a major part of the discussions. Among prominent speakers will be Mrs. Elihu Root, daughter-in-law of Elihu Root, famous international jurist.

D. C.-Virginia Border Controversy Up Again

Old Dispute Over Jurisdiction Near Airport Revived by Oil Station Man; Bride Says Commissioners Have No Jurisdiction.

The moot question of what constitutes the District-Virginia boundary will again come before the District Commissioners today or tomorrow in connection with an application from a gasoline service station operator who has applied for a District license to operate just across the Potomac River.

If the Commissioners adopt the recommendation of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride they will deny the license on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction and will thereby hold that Alexander's Island and the site of the Washington-Hoover Airport are properly within the boundaries of Virginia.

A complication arises from the fact, however, that the Public Utilities Commission, acting upon an opinion almost a year ago from William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel, took the opposite view and as a consequence ordered the Potomac Electric Power Co. to place certain wires underground as they constituted a hazard to the airport. The power company complied with the order although the wires are actually under the control of a Virginia subsidiary.

This opinion bears the signatures of Vernon E. West, acting corporation counsel, although it is contrary to the opinion of Mr. Bride. It was signed by Mr. West through some misunderstanding of his chief's views while the latter was out of the city.

It is Mr. Bride's opinion that until the question is settled authoritatively by judicial process or by a special boundary commission, as proposed by Representative Smith, of Alexandria, the Commissioners should follow the policy of the last 100 years and refuse to exercise jurisdiction in the area south of the Highway Bridge.

The corporation counsel does not deny that there are good grounds for questioning Virginia's claim to this disputed territory, but he holds that the District is not in a position to prove its jurisdiction without resort to a boundary commission or the courts.

As Mr. Roberts pointed out in his opinion last year the Department of Justice has been contesting the claims of Virginia in regard to certain strips of land on the Virginia side of the present high-water mark of the Potomac. It has even threatened to question the claim to title of the Washington-Hoover Airport.

It is the contention of Mr. Roberts and those holding a similar view that the original Lord Baltimore grant extended to what now is known as Roache's Run and that when Maryland ceded part of its territory to the Federal Government for establishment of the National Capital this grant likewise extended to that line.

In those days the Potomac River was divided by what is known as Alexander's Island. With the construction of the railroad and with subsequent dumping, largely by the District, the area between Alexander's Island and Roache's Run was filled in with sediment.

The question of whether this territory actually belongs to the District was raised recently in connection with hearings on the Bingham bill to lease the Washington-Hoover Airport.

LINDBERGH RANSOM QUIZ HERE TO START

Grand Jury to Study Means' and Whittaker's Alleged Fraud Attempt.

An investigation into the alleged attempts of Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whittaker to obtain $35,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean last April during negotiations then going forward for the return of the Lindbergh baby will be launched by the District grand jury Tuesday, it was learned last night when deputy United States marshals began serving subpenas.

Means, sentenced to 15 years following his conviction on charges of stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean, and Whittaker, who is also confined in the District Jail, where he is awaiting trial on a charge of conspiring with Means to obtain that sum of money, allegedly went to Mrs. McLean and attempted to get $35,000 additional in April, 1932.

In confirming the report that the grand jury investigation would be started Tuesday, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover said last night that the pair went to Mrs. McLean, told her there was $49,000 in "hot money" involved in the Lindbergh case in the hands of persons in Chicago.

This money was not easily negotiated, it was intimated, because of it being "hot" and Mrs. McLean was told that if she would produce $35,000 she would be given the $49,000, which she could then turn over to the person who had given it to the Chicago persons for the ransom of the baby.

Mrs. McLean, it was understood, at first seriously considered exchanging $35,000 for the $49,000 "hot money," but changed her mind and declined to go through with the plan. She had at that time given Means $100,000 for ransom money, and $4,000 for expenses.

Mrs. McLean, it was said, was told that there would be no return of the infant until the "hot money" had been exchanged. The charge that will be investigated this time is that of conspiring to commit larceny by trick.

Catholics to Observe Special Holy Hour Rites

Special holy hour services will take place in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, in observance of the Pope's proclamation of a holy year, today from 11:15 to 12:15 noon. The Rev. Daniel J. Connors, oblate missionary of Mary Immaculate, will deliver the sermons. Low mass will immediately follow the services.

The Feast of the Seven Dolors of the Blessed Mother, a high mass, will take place at 12:15 noon tomorrow.

$100,000 IS PAID OUT FROM KANN ESTATE

Emergency Hospital Bequest Is $50,000; Donations to Charities Listed.

Approximately $100,000 from the estate of the late Simon Kann, former president of S. Kann Sons, who died a year ago, has been distributed to the various institutions provided in his will.

The largest bequest ($50,000) went to Emergency Hospital, where it will be administered as the Simon Kann Memorial Fund for the benefit of "indigent patients."

The other institutions of Washington provided for under the will are as follows: United Hebrew Charities, $20,000; Associated Charities of Washington, $5,000; Children's Hospital, $1,000; Garfield Hospital, $1,000; National Homeopathic Hospital, $500; Washington Home for Incurables, $500; Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, $500; Washington Home for Foundlings, $500; Florence Crittenton Home and Help Mission, $300; Gospel Mission, $500; Central Union Mission, $500; Washington Diet Kitchen Association, $500; Christian and Eleanora Ruppert Home, $500; Day Nursery and Dispensary Association, $500; Sibley Memorial Hospital, $500; Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital, $500; Washington Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, $500; St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, $750; St. Anne's Orphan Asylum, $750; St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, $750; Washington Orphan Asylum, $750; Bell Home Orphan Asylum, $750; Little Sisters of the Poor, $750; German Orphan Asylum, $750, and Boys' Club of Washington, $250.

Northeast Savings Vote to Be Tonight

Sale of New $100,000 of Capital Stock Reported to Be Plan.

It is understood unofficially that at a meeting of stockholders of Northeast Savings Bank planned for tonight, authorization of sale of an additional $100,000 worth of capital stock for that institution will be voted upon.

On Tuesday, plans contemplating the reopening of this institution at Eighth and H streets northeast, were announced as being under way by G. F. Hoover, conservator of this bank, and one of its vice presidents.

Mr. Hoover issued a statement at that time reading, "The directors of Northeast Savings Bank are pleased to announce that plans which they have submitted to the Treasury Department for reopening the bank have been approved. These plans will be submitted to the depositors in a few days." The plans have not yet been made public by officials of the bank.

ARMY DAY PARADE TO START AT 1:30: 82 UNITS IN LINE

President Will Review Long Column From Stand in Constitution Avenue.

Army Day will be celebrated this afternoon with a parade of 82 marching military units which will be reviewed by President Roosevelt.

The parade also will commemorate the sixteenth anniversary of the entrance of the Nation into the World War.

The procession, which will include units of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, reserve units, veterans' organizations and school cadets, is sponsored by the Military Order of the World War.

Parade Starts at 1:30.

It will begin at 1:30 in the Peace Monument area. The column will proceed up Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street, where it will turn south to Constitution avenue and pass the President's reviewing stand at Sixteenth street.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, will be grand marshal of the parade. It will be divided into four divisions headed by Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, Lieut. Col. George Ijams and Brig. Gen. William E. Horton.

Traffic arrangements are in charge of Police Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, who has issued orders prohibiting parking in the assembly area east of the Capitol and along the route after 9 a. m.

Colors Will Be Massed.

Colors will be massed at the head of each parade division, as was done at the inaugural, so that Mr. Roosevelt will not have to rise for each national emblem.

In the reviewing stand with the President will be the Secretary of War, George H. Dern; Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Ben A. Fuller, head of the Marine Corps, and other military officials.

Observance of Army Day will close with the annual banquet of the Military Order of the World War at the Mayflower Hotel tonight. Gen. Malone will be the principal speaker.

Salter Held for Jury In Shooting of Lynch

Melvin T. Salter, 34, of 1105 Thirteenth street northwest, was ordered held for the action of a grand jury on a murder charge yesterday by a coroner's jury, which investigated the fatal shooting of his brother-in-law, Allen Lynch, 24, at Salter's apartment early Monday.

Mrs. Georgia Salter, 19, sister of the dead man and wife of the accused; Soner Lynch, Allen's brother, and Tamenosuka Shima, a Japanese, who drove the Lynch brothers to the Salter apartment Monday, were all ordered released by the jury.
